RURAL POWER . . .

Financing Change Is Supported

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska rural electric leaders support a plan proposing changes in federal financing programs for rural electric districts.

The plan, proposed by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, offers "a realistic and reasonable solution" to growing federal financing problems, according to Dil Blatchford of Columbus.

"Supplementary financing is necessary in order to assure our growth, and prevent us from withering away due to financial starvation," Leland Kitt of Palisade declared.

Two Alternate Means

The NRECA proposal urges two alternate means of providing financing for rural electric systems in addition to the current Rural Electrification Administration loan program.

One would be an intermediate financing program administered through an REA revolving fund with interest equal to the cost of money borrowed by the government, but with loans free of the restrictions contained in the present program.

Interest under this plan would amount to an estimated 3.6%, compared to the 2% financing now available to REA systems.

However, the 2% program contains restrictions on the size of generating plant which a borrower may build, bars against refinancing, and requirements for systems to serve in the sparse, poorer areas.

At Current Level

The NRECA proposal would ask Congress to maintain the 2% program at its current level of about $400 million a year for those systems which need 2% money.

The third financing proposal would bring supplemental private money into the program, administered through a federal bank or government-guaranteed loans

Rural electric financing needs are expected to hit $700 million by 1980.

Growing pressure from Congress, the Johnson administration and the Bureau of the Budget has convinced NRECA that the 2% financing structure has "reached the breaking point," according to NRECA General Manager Clyde Ellis.

The administration is determined to propose changes in the program next year, Ellis has told rural electric leaders, and the NRECA proposal is an effort to offer the best possible solution for rural districts.

Money Squeeze

REA is feeling the money squeeze from costs of the war in Viet Nam, the space race and new federal programs, according to Ellis.

Blatchford said that a majority of Nebraska districts "recognize that, with more capital funds needed, we cannot expect the federal government to appropriate our total needs, particularly in view of increasing demands on the federal treasury."

Kitt said Nebraskans can see "the handwriting on the wall," and will support NRECA recommendations in order to "encourage and envigorate our program."

At the same time, he noted, "we favor an effort to get all the 2% money we can possibly get."

No final official decision will be taken on NRECA recommendations until the national convention next February, Kitt pointed out.

JOHNSON BIDS FAREWELL . . . to pontiff outside Waldorf.

President, Pontiff Proclaim Their Unity In Seeking Peace

New York (AP) — President Johnson and Pope Paul VI climaxed a history-making private conference here Monday by proclaiming publicly that they are united in seeking paths to peace.

Johnson said the Pope's journey to New York "may be just what the world needs to get us thinking of how to achieve peace and getting us to make progress in that area."

The pontiff said through an interpreter that he was very happy that this 50-minute session with Johnson "revolved about a mutual desire to work for peace."

At Waldorf

Speaking extemporaneously and without notes, the two world leaders made their statements to five reporters who had been invited to the living room of the presidential suite at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel to witness a formal picture-taking session.

The meeting was the first between a President and Pope on American soil.

Trouble Spots

Besides talking of possible routes to peace, Johnson reported that he and Pope Paul discussed global trouble spots —India and Pakistan, the Dominican Republic, Viet Nam and others—and efforts to combat illiteracy and disease throughout the world.

With obvious pride, Johnson said, "His holiness expressed his pleasure at our not only talking about education and health but our acting on it in this country."

Johnson began his statement by saying:

"The entire world is indebted to his holiness, as I said to him in our private conversation, for the sacrifices he has made in coming on this long trip across the water to provide leadership in the world's quest for peace. His holiness and I discussed ways and means of advancing that cause."

Health, Education

The chief executive described their discussion of health and education problems in this fashion:

"We also exchanged views in detail in connection with what could be done to help provide education to the 800 million people of the world who cannot read or write, to help increase the life expectancy of the millions of humans who now die at an early age, with a life expectancy less than half of what it is in this country."

Pope Paul's interpreter relayed to the newsmen this statement:

"His holiness says he has come here to pay his respects to the President of the United States and also to repay the visit his predecessor paid to Pope John XXIII in 1962, and also to thank the President for having made this trip from Washington to New York to meet his holiness. He is very happy that this discussion has revolved about a mutual desire to work for peace."

Either the pontiff or the interpreter erred in speaking of a meeting of Pope John in 1962 by Johnson's predecessor, John F. Kennedy. It was Pope Paul himself who received Kennedy at the Vatican in 1963. Kennedy never met Pope John but former President Dwight D. Eisenhower did so in 1959.

Threat Of Civil Strife Hovers Over Indonesia

Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia (AP)—The threat of civil war hovered over Indonesia Tuesday, with army generals condemning air force leaders who backed an attempted coup Thursday.

There were reports of clashes between progovernment troops and insurgents in central Java, but Radio Jakarta said many troops of the rebellious Diponegoro Division there had surrendered.

The broadcast, monitored here, did not say how many troops had given up. It said those surrendering heeded appeals by the former divisional commander, Maj. Gen. Sardini, to remain "loyal to the ideals of the republic." The present commander, Col. Suherman, declared his support of the rebel movement and was reported holding out.

President Sukarno, in a message broadcast over Jakarta Radio, called on all the Indonesian armed forces to end hostilities arising from the attempt to unseat him.

Maj. Gen. Suharto, in control of the army under Sukarno's orders, accused the air force of "merciless action" in killing the army chief of staff —Lt. Gen. Achmad Yani, an anticommunist—and five other generals.

6 Bodies Found

A Jakarta broadcast said the mutilated bodies of the six army generals were found in a common grave near an air force base just outside the capital.

Yani, the other five victims, Suharto, and Defense Minister Abdul Nasution were known for their staunch anti-communism.

Radio and other reports available in Kuala Lumpur and Singapore said government forces and elements that attempted the coup were facing each other for a showdown.

'Peace Must Guide Man'

. . . QUOTES LATE PRESIDENT KENNEDY; JACKIE IN AUDIENCE

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Pope Paul VI implored the U.N. Monday to make disarmament its immediate goal with special emphasis on banning offensive weapons.

In an historic, impassioned speech for world peace to the U.N. General Assembly he urged each delegate to adopt this as his solemn oath: "No more war, war never again."

Peace Necessary

And he added: "Peace—It is peace which must guide the destinies and peoples of all mankind."

Only Communist Albania, an outcast in the Soviet bloc and regarded as the voice of Communist China in the United Nations, boycotted the Pope's appearance. All other 116 delegations were present.

The Pope was escorted into the vast assembly hall by Secretary-General U Thant, the Burmese Bhuddist who invited the Pope to make his unprecedented U.N. appearance, and by Amintore Fanfani of Italy, the assembly president.

Clad in white robe and skull cap, and wearing a scarlet cape, he walked to the marble podium to standing applause.

He spoke in French, which was translated simultaneously into the other official U.N. languguages — English, Russian, Spanish and Chinese.

Glittering Array

To an audience that included a glittering array of world political leaders he pleaded for increased trust in the authority and ultimate goals of the United Nations. The top U.S. official present was Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the leading Russian Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

The pontiff asked for intensification of the U.N. efforts to feed the hungry in the world, but he spoke out against any U.N. declaration that would favor birth control.

He referred also to the absence of nations from the world organization in terms that indicated he envisioned the eventual admission of Communist China and the divided nations.

Quotes Kennedy

As the widow of John F. Kennedy sat in the hall the pontiff recalled the words of her husband four years ago: "Mankind must put an end to war, or war will put an end to mankind."

The pontiff put main emphasis on disarmament as a primary means of obtaining world peace.

To the delegates who have been striving unsuccessfully for 20 years to achieve world disarmament he said:

"If you wish to be brothers, let the arms fall from your hands. One cannot love while holding offensive arms."

He said that as long as man remains "that weak, changeable and even wicked being that he often shows himself to be, defensive arms will, unfortunately, be necessary." But he added:

"You, however, in your courage and valor, are studying the ways of guaranteeing the security of international life without recourse to arms. This is an aim worthy of your efforts, this is what the peoples expect of you, this must be achieved."

Last Hope

The pontiff declared that the peoples of the world turn to the United Nations "as the last hope of concord and peace," and that it offers to the world "an extremely simple and fruitful formula of coexistence."

He urged the United Nations to adhere to a formula of equality, "Never one above the other."

He added, "We are well aware that there are other factors to consider besides simple membership of this institution. But equality, too, belongs to its constitution. You are not equal, but here you make yourselves equal."

The pontiff closed on a spiritual note

He declared, "We must get used to thinking of man in a new way, and in a new way also of men's life in common; in a new way, too, of the paths of history and the destiny of the world."

"The hour has come for a halt, a moment of recollection, of reflection, of almost prayer," he added. "A moment to think anew of our common origin, our history, our common destiny.

"Today, as never before, in our era so marked by human progress, there is a need for an appeal to the moral conscience of man. For the danger comes, not from progress, or from science. On the contrary, if properly utilized, these could resolve many of the grave problems which assail mankind.

"The real danger comes from man himself, who has at his disposal ever more powerful instruments which can be employed equally well for destruction or for the loftiest conquests."

Tax Petition 'Irregularities' Claimed

. . . GROUP CONSIDERING FILING SUIT

The chairman of Nebraskans for Fair Taxation said Monday that supporters of the state income tax law have discovered "quite a number of irregularities" in connection with the referendum petition drive seeking a popular vote on the act.

As a result, he said, the organization is considering the possibility of filing suit to nullify the drive and thus keep the issue off the 1966 general election ballot.

"We have found quite a number of bad signatures, and our attorney is doing daily checking for us," John Klosterman of David City said.

Bernard Gradwohl of Lincoln is serving as the attorney, he said.

Questionable

"We still consider questionable the acquisition of signatures on the issue before the Legislature adjourned," Klosterman pointed out.

In addition, he noted, there are "a good many aspects" relating to validity of the petition drive which he does not wish to discuss at this time.

Petitions Filed

Petitions containing sufficient signatures to place the issue on the 1966 ballot — and to enjoin state officials from preparing for implementation of the tax prior to a vote of the people — have been filed with the secretary of state.

The petitions, containing nearly 85,000 signatures, are now undergoing a check by that office.

Councilman Raps Utility Director

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

City Councilman John Mason Monday criticized a city official for speaking out publicly on a proposed dam on the Platte River below Ashland.

He referred to remarks made Friday by Acting Director of Public Utilities Lee Blocker to the Lincoln Kiwanis Club.

Blocker was quoted as saying the city "must oppose the dam across the river either at Louisville or South Bend."

A dam at either Louisville or South Bend would "wipe out our water supply," Blocker said.

Mason called Blocker's remarks "uncalled for," and added, "we should make it clear that this opinion does not represent the thinking of the City Council and the entire city government."

OTHER COUNCIL STORIES, PAGE 7

Mason said he favored such a dam, but did not specify a location. H said it was not the attitude of the council to oppose it.

His remarks about Blocker's Kiwanis talk prompted Acting Mayor Mrs. Helen Boosalis to call for a meeting between the council, Mayor Dean Petersen and water department officials to gather enough information on the project so the council "can take a stand on it."

Mrs Boosalis and Mason both asked for a study on what the dam might do to the city water supply. Mason conceded that the dam could cause the city some problems.

Not For Entire City

Blocker said that his remarks were "my personal opinion" and, "I wasn't speaking for the entire city."

"I was speaking only as it might affect the city water system," said Blocker. "Such a dam could have a serious effect on it".

In his Friday speech Blocker said "there is no comparison between a surface water supply and the clean, even-temperatured water" the city now gets from the Ashland well fields.

He said that previous meetings with the corps of engineers indicated that the wells would be replaced by surface water.

Mrs Boosalis and Councilman Carroll Thompson defended Blocker, saying that city officials have the right to express their opinions.

"They shouldn't have to wait until the council tells them what to say," Mrs Boosalis commented

RURAL POWER . . .

Financing Change Is Supported

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska rural electric leaders support a plan proposing changes in federal financing programs for rural electric districts.

The plan, proposed by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, offers "a realistic and reasonable solution" to growing federal financing problems, according to Dil Blatchford of Columbus.

"Supplementary financing is necessary in order to assure our growth, and prevent us from withering away due to financial starvation," Leland Kitt of Palisade declared.

Blatchford is general manager of the Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative (NRECA). Kitt is president of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association.

Two Alternate Means

The NRECA proposal urges two alternate means of providing financing for rural electric systems in addition to the current Rural Electrification Administration loan program.

One would be an intermediate financing program administered through an REA revolving fund with interest equal to the cost of money borrowed by the government, but with loans free of the restrictions contained in the present program.

Interest under this plan would amount to an estimated 3.6%, compared to the 2% financing now available to REA systems.

However, the 2% program contains restrictions on the size of generating plant which a borrower may build, bars against refinancing, and requirements for systems to serve in the sparse, poorer areas.

At Current Level

The NRECA proposal would ask Congress to maintain the 2% program at its current level of about $400 million a year for those systems which need 2% money.

The third financing proposal would bring supplemental private money into the program, administered through a federal bank or government-guaranteed loans.

Rural electric financing needs are expected to hit $700 million by 1980.

Growing pressure from Congress, the Johnson administration and the Bureau of the Budget has convinced NRECA that the 2% financing structure has "reached the breaking point," according to NRECA General Manager Clyde Ellis.

The administration is determined to propose changes in the program next year, Ellis has told rural electric leaders, and the NRECA proposal is an effort to offer the best possible solution for rural districts.

Money Squeeze

REA is feeling the money squeeze from costs of the war in Viet Nam, the space race and new federal programs, according to Ellis.

Blatchford said that a majority of Nebraska districts "recognize that, with more capital funds needed, we cannot expect the federal government to appropriate our total needs, particularly in view of increasing demands on the federal treasury."

Kitt said Nebraskans can see "the handwriting on the wall," and will support NRECA recommendations in order to "encourage and envigorate our program."

At the same time, he noted, "we favor an effort to get all the 2% money we can possibly get."

No final official decision will be taken on NRECA recommendations until the national convention next February, Kitt pointed out.

Paul VI: 'God Bless America'

New York (AP)—Pope Paul VI flew home toward Rome Monday night after a dramatic day-long quest for peace and disarmament, a momentous and heartfelt mission to the New World aimed at uniting all mankind in a future forever free of the scourge of war.

"God bless America, God bless you all," was the Pope's parting benediction just before he boarded Trans World Airlines transatlantic jet Flight 6840 at Kennedy Airport.

The plane took off at 9:30 p.m. CST.

Pope Paul had written history with virtually his every word and action on this, the first visit to the United States by a reigning Roman Catholic pontiff.

Full Day

The Pope met with President Johnson, addressed the United Nations, conferred with American leaders of other faiths, conducted a spectacular outdoor mass of peace in Yankee Stadium, and managed a late evening stop at the Vatican Pavilion of the New York World's Fair. He came through it all with the serenity and fresh appearance with which he began.

Police Commissioner Vincent Broderick estimated that more than 3.8 million saw the Pope in person as he moved quickly about New York. Millions more watched on television.

There were no disorders of any consequence.

At Yankee Stadium, where 90,000 persons rendered the pontiff a standing ovation that was deafening, Pope Paul declared:

"Peace be to this house, to this continent, and to all those who inhabit it. We must love peace, we must make our own the cause of peace . . ."

As the mass ended and the Pope departed, the three-tiered stadium resounded to the chant of "Long live the Pope, long live the Pope."

At the Vatican Pavilion, Pope Paul visited the Pieta, the magnificent Michelangelo creation that the pontiff personally loaned to the World's Fair.

Throughout his visit, children, especially, basked in the warmth of Pope Pauls apostolic favor.

The pontiff's trip evoked from the Senate of the United States a resolution welcoming him "on the occasion of his historic visit to our country."

Cheers, Tears

And from the people in the streets of Manhattan, it evoked cheers—and occasional tears born of high emotion.

And from Protestant, Orthodox and Jewish leaders, gathered at Holy Family Catholic Church near the U N, it evoked a pledge of cooperation in seeking an end to dissension and war, as he told them:

"The work of peace is not restricted to one religious belief. It is the work and duty of every human person regardless of his religious conviction."

In the heart of Manhattan, after a brief but stirring greeting at St. Patrick's Cathedral, the Pope went to his meeting with the President at the nearby Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

What the outcome of these extraordinary encounters would be, only time would tell, but a 14-year-old schoolgirl, Nora Bankart, one of those who packed the streetsides, voiced the universal yearing, "I hope this does some good.'

Pontiff Helps U.N. Prestige

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Many delegates expressed belief Monday that Pope Paul's address to the U. N. General Assembly will give the prestige of the world peace forum a badly needed boost.

"The pontiff's speech should do a great deal to enhance the prestige of the United Nations, which went through a great crisis last year," said Ambassador Kurt Waldheim of Austria.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said, "The American people are deeply gratified that the Pope, by his visit and his strong appeal for peace, has strengthened the efforts of the United Nations in this vital work"

Tremendous

A similar view was expressed by Foreign Minister Gabriel Valdes of Chile. He said, "The Pope's presence and his speech here should have a tremendous effect not only in strengthening the cause of peace, but in strengthening the United Nations itself."

Foreign Minister Frank Aiken of Ireland said he thought the Pope's speech "should be a great help to the United Nations."

"It is a very great important event in the history of the United Nations," said Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou of Cyprus.

There seemed to be general agreement that the U. N. needed the presence of a great figure like the pontiff to help erase the negative image caused by the dispute over U.N. peace-keeping finances last year.

To avoid a showdown over finance, delegates agreed on a no vote truce and accomplished virtually nothing during the 19th assembly.

Differences

Those who heard the pontiff differed on whether his remarks about uniting the U.N. into a pact of brotherhood referred to the issue of seating Red China in the world forum.

Foreign Minister Mahmound Riad of the United Arab Republic, which has been pushing for Peking membership, said, "I don't know what he meant, but if he did mean China, we give this statement our full support."

Foreign Minister Alberto Herrarte of Guatemala said he thought the pontiff meant that all countries should love peace in order to be a part of the United Nations and was not thinking of Red China when he touched on this phase.

Great Message

Herrarte said he thought the pontiff's address carried a "great message to the U.N. membership."

Chief Adebo of Nigeria said he thought it was a positive speech and a comprehensive one.

"It will not work magic overnight," Adebo said, "but its appeal to the conscience of man should have a great impact."

Many delegates seemed surprised that the pontiff spoke in such specific terms about the cause of peace. They had expected an address couched in more general terms.

Catholic Groups Picket Cardinal During U.N. Visit

New York (AP) — Seven persons picketed the United Nations during the visit of Pope Paul VI there Monday, but police kept them far from the entrance the pontiff used and he did not see them.

One group of five negro and white men picketed in the name of Catholics United for Racial Equality, a group opposed to the policies of James Francis Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles.

They said their group demands the cardinal's ouster and the adoption of Los Angeles Archdiocese policies favoring the civil rights movement.

The other two pickets were a Mineola, N.Y., couple marching against the Los Angeles group. They said they represented Catholic Defenders of the Faith, a group supporting Cardinal McIntyre.

LBJ, Paul Trade Gifts

The Pope presented Johnson with a painting by the Italian artist Filocamo entitled, "The Resurrected Christ." He gave Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of State Dean Rusk smaller oil paintings, both landscapes, by another contemporary Italian, Considori.

Papal Cross, Ring To U.N. For Hungry

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Pope Paul VI Monday gave the United Nations a diamond-studded cross and ring—valued at $150,000—to be sold to help the worldwide campaign against hunger.

The pontiff made the presentation at a reception for heads of state and chief delegates in the 38th floor suite of Secretary-General U Thant. He gave it to Thant as a gesture of esteem for the United Nations.

Thant expressed his sincere gratitude and remarked:

"If the Big Four would make a bid for it, the United Nations would take the highest price."

Diplomats of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France reacted with smiles to Thant's suggestion. They made no commitments.

The cross and ring came from the pontiff's private collection, a U.N. spokesman said, adding that the estimate of their value came from experts.

Each person received a special issue of four Vatican stamps and a silver medallion as a memento of Pope Paul's visit.

Representatives of both Western and Communist nations greeted the pontiff

Vatican Council Prays For Peace

Vatican City (AP)—Bishops at the Vatican Ecumenical Council prayed together Monday that Pope Paul's visit to the United Nations might show "the way of peace to the family of nations.

The 2,200 members of the Roman Catholic herarchy, who stayed behind to continue council work, prayed in a special mass.

The mass was celebrated in St. Peter's Basilica as the Pope winged over the Atlantic heading for the U N General Assembly in New York.

Cardinals, patriarchs, archbishops and bishops from every corner of the world asked God's blessing for the Pope's peace mission. They sought divine blessings, too, for all political leaders and institutions that could work for peace and for all who have suffered torment in life from persecution and war.

"Four our holy father, Pope Paul, that he might be able to show the way of peace to the family of nations," the council fathers prayed.

"For all those governing nations, that they might be inspired by the desire for peace. . . for public institutions fostering peace among nations, that they might check growing concern with arms and change this concern with efforts for peace"

The prayers and mass were a demonstration that the entire church, whose half-billion members make it the largest Christian denomination in the world was united with the pontiff in his dramatic gesture to bring the church closer to the sufferings of the world.

Man's sufferings also were the focus of the days council debate as the prelates turned from their prayers to get on with the work before them—a document on modern world problems.

More than a hundred bishops asked for the establishment of a revolutionary new church office—perhaps a Vatican secretariat—to seek ways to alleviate problems of poverty and social justice.

Pope Paul's U N. visit had a direct bearing on this. Many of the bishops of the council expect that a church agency on poverty and justice is bound to be formed soon as a consequence of his visit.

Dr. Court Speaks

He was a member of the White House Conference on Education, first chairman of the Nebraska Governor's Youth Committee and a member of President Eisenhower's Trade Commission.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., was on the Monday afternoon program and Gov. Frank Morrison talked at a banquet Monday night.

Curtis told the association "we have an obligation to hand on the soil in just as good shape, or a little better, than when this generation came upon the scene. Conservation benefits are long-range benefits and are in the public good."

The senator pledged continuing support of efforts to strengthen and extend soil and water conservation work.

More than 275 attended the opening program, at which the Ansley Future Farmers of America chapter received a $100 conservation sweepstakes award from the Omaha World-Herald.

The Lexington chapter got the $40 runnerup prize and $35 went to third-place Fullerton. Palmyra, Geneva, Alliance and McCook chapters were awarded $25 each.

Pool Room Popular With Oldsters

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Blair—"Cue up," "three-ball combination," "10 ball in the side"—doesn't sound much like talk that would come out of a rest home.

But terminology like that is commonplace around the Crowell Memorial Home here since a pool table joined the jigsaw puzzles and cards in the recreation room.

The green felt gets a continual workout by the oldsters—so much in fact that the home's first cheap table was worn out in short order and had to be replaced with a better model.

There are no organized contests; they "just play for fun," said Mrs. A. C. Monkman, the bookkeeper and receptionist whose husband, a retired Methodist minister, is one of the most avid participants.

'Good For Heart Patients'

Even some of the kitchen help comes out for a quick round of rotation when they have a few spare minutes.

"Billiards is highly recommended as recreation by local doctors," Mrs. Monkman explained, "especially for people with heart trouble. It offers arm and limb exercise without the stooping that is required in something like shuffleboard."

Most residents had never chalked a cue before they came here, but they're prepared now to meet any challenges from outside.

Damp, Cold Month Hurt Most Crops

. . . Say Experts

One of the wettest and coldest Septembers on record in Nebraska has hurt development of most crops, government crop observers said Monday.

The observers said in their weekly report that harvesting of corn, grain sorghum, silage and dry beans has been delayed by the unfavorable weather conditions.

Excessive moisture has caused some sorghum stalk rot in several fields, they said.

However, the wet weather has helped fall growth of ranges, pastures, meadows and alfalfa fields, and a good supply of field forage and roughage is assured.

The experts said most of the winter wheat has been planted in the eastern part of the state but operations are behind schedule in other areas. Early planted fields appeared to be in good condition.

Nearly all of the rye and legumes have been planted, and cutting of wild hay and the fourth crop of alfalfa is almost concluded.

State NFO Supports Repeal Of Right-To-Work Provision

Grand Island (AP)—The Nebraska chapter of the National Farmers Organization was on record Monday in support of repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act, the so-called right-to-work provision.

The NFO acted on other resolutions at its sixth annual convention and tabled others. Delegates heard talks by Oren Lee Staley, the national president, and Lt. Gov. Phil Sorensen.

Other resolutions approved stated that collective bargaining is the No. 1 endeavor of the NFO; that whereas millions are spent on agricultural production research at the University of Nebraska an equal amount should be allocated to agricultural marketing research; opposed financing of commercial farming and farm integration by the Small Business Administration.

Delegates rejected a resolution which would have made mandatory instead of voluntary the checkoff system under which members are charged five cents per hog marketed to pay for expenses of an informational service.

Two national directors were re-elected. They are Val Akerlund of Valley and C. C. (Felix) Deterding of Stapleton.

Delegates tabled three major resolutions. One supported the state income tax and another urged that a portion of the state income tax be returned to local school districts.

The third resolution tabled called for the resignation of Val Peterson from the University of Nebraska Board of Regents, asked a detailed accounting of the purchase of Chancellor Clifford Hardin's home, and asked an explanation why nothing regarding the purchase was included in the budget presented to the Legislature.

August Red Meat Output Shows Dip

The State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported Monday that commercial red meat production in Nebraska during August totaled 178 million pounds, just one per cent below the output for the same month a year ago.

However, the production was 10% more than the five-year (1959-1963) August average, the division said.

The August production pushed Nebraska's total red meat output for the first eight months of this year to 1.5 billion pounds, as compared to 1.6 billion pounds at the same time a year ago.

A lot of hard work, to put it mildly, has gone into the creation of this nation but it keeps coming back a hundred-fold to its citizens. In accepting the offer of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro to accept any Cubans who wanted to come to this country, President Johnson painted an unusual picture before the world. These are days of concern over the "population explosion," days when world leaders are anxious about a future when there are too many people in the world.

In the face of this threat from humanity itself, this nation still can open its doors to the oppressed and extend to them a helping hand and promise of a rewarding life. There will be 355,000 immigrants coming into the United States annually as a result of the country's new immigration laws. If the Cuban arrangements are finally completed, 50,000 residents of that island are expected to enter the U.S. in the coming year. That would be total of more than 400,000 new people coming to this nation a year—a population explosion all its own.

Immigration Influx

Such things are not accomplished without difficulties and without problems arising, but the job can be done. With unemployment in this nation already hitting around 5 million, it is obvious that there are not 400,000 jobs currently going begging in the nation. But those who come to this nation from other lands will not starve in the streets.

Some of them will be young people who will enter the educational ranks, others will take up training in some vocational field. Some of them will be specialists who are greatly in demand and then some will enter the labor force on the low end of the totem pole. These latter will show us a few things we are inclined to forget.

We consider it poverty for a man to live on $3,500 a year but foreigners who come to this nation will not all look at things in the way we do. The $3,500 a year is slightly more than $67 a week. While not a lot of money, it is difficult to look at such a wage as poverty. The worker at that figure is not going to be eating steak at every meal nor will his wife be sporting a mink coat. He probably won't drive a new car or spend a lot of money on entertainment. However, he would not be starving to death and would have a roof over his head. The immigrant will not find a $67-a-week job to be the heaven he might first think. It might be a fine job where he came from but he will find that it costs more to live in this country. The bread that cost him 10 cents in his native land is 21 or 22 cents here.

On the other hand, his wife may be making the family's bread and getting by for much less than 22 cents. The point is that these people will find work even though it may not be at the top end of the economic scale. And they will be willing to work, as they have demonstrated in the past.

Then, too, there are the problems and difficulties that are inevitable. The American people are pouring billions of dollars into programs aimed at raising the standard of living for citizens and providing opportunity for all people. In some degree the immigration program and to a greater degree the Cuban refugee program will add to this burden of the American people.

To raise the standard of living means to improve the capacity of people and this is a costly process. They must be given the tools of education, personality or morality that they now lack and this requires specialized services over an extended period of time. It means intelligent and effective handling, too, of such constant threat as inflation or recession.

It is fairly certain that the addition to our ranks through people of other lands is not going to ease the tax situation any. But despite the level of taxation in this nation, we are not a leader in this regard in the Western world. Taxes in the United States still run below those of many major European countries. And while most of us complain, rather constantly, about the tax situation, we have never had it so good. Home ownership in this country sets a new record every year and the average age of such ownership continues to fall.

U.S. Standards High

The nation does have the capacity to meet the demands that are made upon it, including those of an expanded immigration or refugee program. We need the willingness to do this, also, and it is because we have been willing in the past that we occupy the enviable position in the world that we do. The investments in human dignity that have been made throughout our history have never failed to pay a big return in the future. President Johnson in his weekend action has committed us all to certain sacrifices but he is building for the tomorrow in doing so.

800 Million Hungry Illiterates

The immensity of the problem of an orderly, prosperous world was brought out more or less as an aside when Pope Paul conversed in New York with President Lyndon B. Johnson.

One thing that concerned them greatly was the problem of a world with 800 million human beings who can neither read nor write and who can barely enjoy half the life expectancy of the average American.

Eight hundred million handicapped people would compose a nation four times the size of the United States, would earn an annual individual income ranging less than $150 a year and enjoy nothing but a meager existence. This is a poorer existence than that experienced by wild animals who at least can get enough to eat and a comfortable den in which to live.

To the average American such a life would be intolerable, but it, or just a little better, is the fate of at least half of humanity. It is a humbling thought and a worrisome one, too, to a nation that assumes the nobility of man and which relatively has so much.

Political dialogue can have little meaning for people in such straightened circumstances and their very condition tends to bar them from progress. Life for them is truly a vale of tears.

We have little need for diplomats and scientists to deal helpfully with such people. Their first problem is sufficient food and shelter, after that the rudiments of civilized life. The problem is almost too big to be comprehended. But obviously our current aid problems extend over the heads of these needy folk.

It is a shame that we struggle with an oversupply of food. And we need a vastly expanded Peace Corps teaching the simplest techniques of building and job making.

One We Can Just Watch

The uncertain political and military situation in Indonesia is one, for a change, that we apparently can just watch from the sidelines. It involves the leftist leaning government of strong-armed President Sukarno and disgruntled hard-core communist leaders.

For the United States, it is six of one and half a dozen of another. Sukarno has withdrawn his nation from the United Nations, has vowed to crush neighboring Malaysia and has verbally lambasted the U.S. at every turn. He has completely and totally disassociated his nation from the U.S.

While we wish no ill fortune upon anyone, it is ironic that Sukarno now faces the threat he does from Red elements within his own nation. He resented what he felt was U.S. intervention in the affairs of his country but relationships between Indonesia and the U.S. were at least on a civilized basis. We were instigating no coup to topple Sukarno from his high office.

For the developing nations of the world, the lesson should be clear. You do not play with fire without getting burned. You do not do business with the Red Chinese unless you are ready and willing to capitulate completely to their dictatorial statesmanship. Even North Viet Nam is said to be wondering about its ties with Red China for this very reason. Sukarno is finding his newfound neighbor to be more like a hungry, caged beast.

The Indonesian uprisings are at this point uncertain as to their outcome but Sukarno obviously has internal problems he cannot handle. Additional power and control by Red China in Indonesia would not be welcome but it would be only little more of a threat than Sukarno has offered.

Laggard Understanding

It was just ten years ago that President Dwight Eisenhower proposed that the United States and Russia support an open sky policy.

What he had in mind was to bolster peaceful relations by allowing each country to fly over the other. In that way any unusual concentrations of military power could be detected. The surprise element of attack would largely be dispelled and peace thus furthered.

Moscow scornfully rejected the proposal. Later Russia shot down the American U2 plane and made a crisis over it. Although the U.S. had made unnumbered overflights this one served Russia's propaganda purposes and embarrassed both the President and the nation.

That was ten years ago. The time since has proved the Eisenhower thesis and the Russian propaganda storm dwindled to a whisper.

Today the orbiting satellites have put the entire world under surveillance and the open sky policy is actually in effect. Scientific improvements in picture taking and message transcription together with the ease of putting up satellites has made it virtually impossible to stage a major military surprise.

In short, progress has done what statecraft was unable to do, and facts have replaced passions. We have no doubt but that Russia is also maintaining a watchful eye from above on us. We do not know how well, but we know we are having no difficulty finding out precisely all that we wish to know.

The warning in this is that modern technology is emptying out the insides of old fashioned diplomacy and many of our issues really are not issues any more. We just think they are. This tells us that we are more in danger of unrealistic international attitudes than we are of modern military machinery. We are holding too many medieval attitudes in the space age.

Says Cooley Aided Sugar Lobbyists

WASHINGTON — It has become an open scandal how House Agriculture Chairman Harold Cooley, D-N.C., the greatest sugar daddy of them all, let the sugar lobbyists virtually dictate how much sugar their foreign clients should be permitted to sell the United States.

Since Uncle Sam pays triple the world market price, several nations clamored to unload their sugar on the American taxpayers. Most applicants hired high-priced lobbyists to sweet-talk congressmen into upping the quotas.

Cooley first tried, to persuade the Agriculture Department to let him, rather than the sugar experts, decide how much the quotas should be. He phoned the department repeatedly, sometimes threatening, sometimes cajoling, to urge it to give his favorite lobbyists what they wanted.

When agriculture officials resisted his pressure, he ignored their proposals and drafted a bill to suit the lobbyists. At the hearings he was cool to government witnesses, benign toward the lobbyists.

He singled out Arthur Quinn, mouthpiece for sugar clients in Ecuador, Panama, British Honduras and the British West Indies, for special words of honey.

At one point, Cooley actually admitted two lobbyists behind closed doors to help the committee draft the bill. The public and press were barred from the room, but the sugar lobbyists were allowed inside.

Thus, Irving Hoff of the Cane Sugar Refiners and Phil Jones of the Beet Sugar Association were permitted to sit around the drafting table with the congressmen, quietly suggesting what should go into the bill and what should be kept out.

The committee benevolently included in the bill, for example, a 10,000-ton sugar quota for the Bahama Islands, which has never produced sugar in the past. Since there is already a sugar surplus in the world, the committee should have been encouraging less, not more, production.

This column revealed last month that the mysterious Bahamas quota was really a windfall for the Owens-Illinois Company, which produces glass, plastics and paper but has never grown any sugar. Yet the entire quota, which would cost the taxpayers $1,000,000 a year above the market price, would go to one company for growing sugar in the Bahamas.

The column account stirred up opposition, which was led inside the committee by Rep. Joe Resnick, D-N.Y., a vigorous and courageous freshman. Championing Owens-Illinois was Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., with Cooley nodding his quiet assent.

Not long afterward, whispers began circulating in the back rooms that Resnick had a financial stake in opposing Owens-Illinois. One who spread the rumor was Rep. William Poage, D-Tex.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Rich Nations Richer, Poor Nations Poorer

WASHINGTON—The leading bankers of the world, who have just spent a week in Washington bravely breasting a tide of cocktail parties, receptions and dinners, did nothing radical to alter the mysteries of the money market. But they heard plain words spoken by a bank with distinguished credentials in both private and public fields. And if they heed there was good reason why the complacency of those coming from the prosperous little island of the West should have been shaken.

In his two and a half years as president of the World Bank George D. Woods has developed a dedicated conviction of the need to correct the perilous imbalance that finds three-fourths of the peoples of the earth desperately poor and one-fourth comparatively rich. What he told his board of governors in his annual address was that the rich have been getting richer while the poor have at best been standing still or getting poorer.

This is a long way for the chairman of the First Boston Corp., a conservative New York investment house to have come. In outward appearance he's a banker's banker of the new breed, looking much younger than his 64 years, concerned with philanthropy, cultural and civic endeavors. Yet he was in his early business career roaming the world in search of investment opportunities that he laid the base for his present role.

Out of 80 developing countries in the World Bank's membership, Woods said, one-third have attained recently a rate of 5 percent or more in growth of real income which is the target of the United Nations development decade. But on the other hand in close to half the 80 countries, with more than 50 percent of their population, income per head has risen by 1 percent or less.

"Even to keep abreast of recent high rates of population growth," Woods said, "is not a negligible achievement but is far from sufficient. The average per capita income in this group is no more than $120 a year. At a 1 percent growth rate income levels will hardly reach $170 a year by the end of this century.

The rich, developed countries are simply not coming through with sufficient capital investment in the public or the private sector. And in many instances, Woods said, interest rates have been jacked up to such a point that a considerable share of the capital currently going in must be used to service debts. The underdeveloped countries for their part have in too many instances failed to carryout reforms essential if loans and grants are to be used profitably.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

The leaden skies looked more like November skies yesterday, with a threat of snow expected at any moment. A north wind was blowing, carrying the wild honking clangor of a flock of geese to my ears long before they became visible.

These were the big Canadian snow geese. They circled the pond, then lit on a wheat field. How their white plumage stood out against the greening field. How wise they are in getting out of the northern lakes before they freeze into the water.

If our weather is any indication of what the frosty mornings are like to the north of us, I would be taking off for a warmer climate too.

Young dogs must have some unfortunate experiences before they learn a lesson. Duke learned his yesterday. Some things do not run away when they are chased. A skunk is one of them.

The Farmer was sowing wheat while Duke chased the rabbits from a nearby alfalfa field. It was great sport for a pup, just as chasing cats about the farm has been. Suddenly Duke began rubbing his nose and head vigorously on the ground. The Farmer wondered if a nest of bumblebees had been routed by the inquisitive pup. He was not in doubt for long. Duke soon appeared alongside the tractor. The Farmer knew immediately what had happened and gave him the cold shoulder for the remainder of the day.

When I returned at night, he came bouncing to the car to be petted. Instead of greeting him with a pat on the head and puppy dog talk, I quickly backed away and ordered him to do likewise.

Such a pathetic creature I have never seen, with drooping ears and sad eyes. "A dog's life isn't fit for a dog to live," seemed to be his tale of woe.

Sometimes when I am busy in the kitchen, I turn the radio on in the dining room. If I get involved in some task, the radio blares and blares, or so it seemed this morning. To the beat of drums and guitars, one fellow sang over and over, "I've got troubles. I've got troubles." The only trouble I noticed he had was that he couldn't sing. Finally before the song ended, I turned the radio off, thinking my problem was solved. For almost half an hour after his twanging, shouting song was over, my ears rang with, "I've got troubles," to the bang of drums.

We of the older generation have to do a considerable amount of dial switching to get a station that plays music that we understand. It is joy to hear a well played piece, smooth yet lilting and melodious. The nerves aren't jangled for half an hour after the song has been completed.

I have often noticed how quickly the teenagers get the beat of music, should they be packed into a booth at a cafe. The music starts and all systems are go. Shoulders start to gyrate and heads begin to bob, sometimes looking as if the individual is not aware of his rhythm.

The loudness of the music makes little difference. If the music is loud, they talk louder. They have to or they cannot communicate. Yet, put these same young ones into a formal situation where every detail must be proper, and the majority of them will come through with flying colors.

So I will continue to listen to my mood music in the kitchen and be content to watch the bobbing heads and moving shoulders outside my kitchen. Secretly I wish that I could be as active as the youngsters but some things are best left unsaid.

However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

'School Bored'

Lincoln, Neb.

I am disturbed that any literature which is ultimately a bid for business, such as the insurance leaflets that came home with the school children should be allowed!

If the school board condones this sort of advertising, and the public lets them get away with it, it should be fair game to play to any group with the power to win the board's approval.

Too many people are "school bored."

Right To Dissent

Bennet, Neb.

Marquis Childs suggested in his September 28 column that Americans are losing the right to dissent. There are some alarming indications that he may be right. Certainly we as a nation do seem to be losing any concept we may have had of a loyal opposition, and without such an opposition, democracy as we have known it is impossible. At all levels in our country, the notion seems to be gaining currency that opposition, no matter how constructive, to the stated programs of the government is ipso-facto evidence of disloyalty. And on those occasions when public dissent is not attacked with charges of disloyalty, it seem to be ignored or dismissed as irresponsible or uninformed.

Acceptance by the public and the press of such an attitude is nothing less than acceptance of the principles of despotic paternalism. The slogan, "Trust me; I know in my wisdom what is best for you all," has led countless nations for countless centuries down the primrose path to totalitarian misery. A government hostile or unresponsive to the criticism of the governed, be it of a tiny minority or a huge majority, is a government over which the people have lost effective control.

It is thus imperative that we as a nation never lose sight of the fact that responsible dissent by citizens, be it of our policies in Viet Nam of the Dominican Republic or of Medicare and social welfare programs, is not only not disloyal, it is necessary to the preservation of our form of government and far from being suppressed or ignored, should be sought and encouraged. Dialogue and dispute are essential elements of a democratic system. Lose them and democracy is lost, as well.

The Commandments

Lincoln, Neb.

There are undoubtedly other issues in the community that are of more immediate concern than that of the advertisement that The Star carried on the Ten Commandments. Yet I am concerned about the way this advertisement treats the Ten Commandments because I believe it confuses rather than defines the Old Testament Law. This confusion can best be pointed out by applying the Ten Commandments to the advertisement.

(1) By using white Anglo-Saxons dressed in Sunday school pageant costumes to pictorially dramatize the Ten Commandments, the advertisement breaks the Second Commandment ("You shall not make yourself a graven image, or any likeness of anything that is in heaven or above . . .").

(2) By listing the names of the merchants and business concerns under the advertisement, the advertisement violates the Third Commandment ("You shall not take the name of the Lord your God in vain.")

(3) By stating that this advertisement represents the ministers of Lincoln, it is possible that even the Ninth Commandment has been violated ("You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor.")

Income Contrast

Tekamah, Neb.

The venomous attitude and egotistical arrogance expressed by Michael Callaghan in his letter of September 25 hardly seems to qualify him as a person capable of logical debate.

Just how historically established facts become cliches or how a reference to these facts can cause anyone to suffer nausea, I am not quite sure. I have heard, however, that there are those who prefer to live in a world disassociated from reality. It is possible, too, that Mr. Callaghan would suffer much less from this "ad nauseum" if he would occasionally try instead to add facts.

He speaks with such haughty contemptuousness of the "poverty-stricken slob" who "pays out dues money" to the organized unions that even the organization of his thinking seems to have been tragically short-changed

To contend that labor unions were serving a good and necessary cause prior to 1940 but that they then became so corrupt that they could have been disbanded has about as much logic as to say that an automobile is fine for getting you started down the road but that at the first sign of trouble, you would of course be much better off to get rid of it. My opinion is that the walking would be just as laborious as it was in the first place.

In stating that the American worker is poorer than the lowest Arab in Kuwait where, he contends, the average family income is $30,000 a year, I am wondering if Mr. Callaghan is proposing that we rid the nation of all labor unions simply by ordering all "stupid dues-paying slobs" to have an oil well drilled in their "not-paid-for" backyards.

Figures shown in the "Economic Indicator" prove that labor income has risen slightly over 100% since 1951. This has been very much in line with total personal income but it is in sharp contrast with the more than 22% drop in farm income. Farmers, incidentally, for Mr. Callaghan's information, are not yet well enough organized to have a voice in what they are being paid. Maybe he has just been calling the wrong people "stupid."

Returns On Investments

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A lot of hard work, to put it mildly, has gone into the creation of this nation but it keeps coming back a hundred-fold to its citizens. In accepting the offer of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro to accept any Cubans who wanted to come to this country, President Johnson painted an unusual picture before the world. These are days of concern over the "population explosion," days when world leaders are anxious about a future when there are too many people in the world.

In the face of this threat from humanity itself, this nation still can open its doors to the oppressed and extend to them a helping hand and promise of a rewarding life. There will be 355,000 immigrants coming into the United States annually as a result of the country's new immigration laws. If the Cuban arrangements are finally completed, 50,000 residents of that island are expected to enter the U.S. in the coming year. Says Cooley Aided Sugar Lobbyists

WASHINGTON — It has become an open scandal how House Agriculture Chairman Harold Cooley, D-N.C., the greatest sugar daddy of them all, let the sugar lobbyists virtually dictate how much sugar their foreign clients should be permitted to sell the United States.

Since Uncle Sam pays triple the world market price, several nations clamored to unload their sugar on the American taxpayers. Most applicants hired high-priced lobbyists to sweet-talk congressmen into upping the quotas.

Cooley first tried to persuade the Agriculture Department to let him, rather than the sugar experts, decide how much the quotas should be. He phoned the department repeatedly, sometimes threatening, sometimes cajoling, to urge it to give his favorite lobbyists what they wanted.

When agriculture officials resisted his pressure, he ignored their proposals and drafted a bill to suit the lobbyists. At the hearings he was cool to government witnesses, benign toward the lobbyists.

He singled out Arthur Quinn, mouthpiece for sugar clients in Ecuador, Panama, British Honduras and the British West Indies, for special words of honey.

At one point, Cooley actually admitted two lobbyists behind closed doors to help the committee draft the bill. The public and press were barred from the room, but the sugar lobbyists were allowed inside.

Thus, Irving Hoff of the Cane Sugar Refiners and Phil Jones of the Beet Sugar Association were permitted to sit around the drafting table with the congressmen, quietly suggesting what should go into the bill and what should be kept out.

The committee benevolently included in the bill, for example, a 10,000-ton sugar quota for the Bahama Islands, which has never produced sugar in the past. Since there is already a sugar surplus in the world, the committee should have been encouraging less, not more, production.

This column revealed last month that the mysterious Bahamas quota was really a windfall for the Owens-Illinois Company, which produces glass, plastics and paper but has never grown any sugar. Yet the entire quota, which would cost the taxpayers $1,000,000 a year above the market price, would go to one company for growing sugar in the Bahamas.

The column account stirred up opposition, which was led inside the committee by Rep. Joe Resnick, D-N.Y., a vigorous and courageous freshman. Championing Owens-Illinois was Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., with Cooley nodding his quiet assent.

Not long afterward, whispers began circulating in the back rooms that Resnick had a financial stake in opposing Owens - Illinois. One who spread the rumor was Rep. William Poage, D-Tex.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Rich Nations Richer, Poor Nations Poorer

WASHINGTON—The leading bankers of the world, who have just spent a week in Washington bravely breasting a tide of cocktail parties, receptions and dinners, did nothing radical to alter the mysteries of the money market. But they heard plain words spoken by a bank with distinguished credentials in both private and public fields. And if they heed there was good reason why the complacency of those coming from the prosperous little island of the West should have been shaken.

In his two and a half years as president of the World Bank George D. Woods has developed a dedicated conviction of the need to correct the perilous imbalance that finds three-fourths of the peoples of the earth desperately poor and one-fourth comparatively rich. What he told his board of governors in his annual address was that the rich have been getting richer while the poor have at best been standing still or getting poorer.

This is a long way for the chairman of the First Boston Corp., a conservative New York investment house to have come. In outward appearance he's a banker's banker of the new breed, looking much younger than his 64 years, concerned with philanthropy, cultural and civic endeavors. Yet he was in his early business career roaming the world in search of investment opportunities that he laid the base for his present role.

Out of 80 developing countries in the World Bank's membership, Woods said, one-third have attained recently a rate of 5 percent or more in growth of real income which is the target of the United Nations development decade. But on the other hand in close to half the 80 countries, with more than 50 percent of their population, income per head has risen by 1 percent or less.

"Even to keep abreast of recent high rates of population growth," Woods said, "is not a negligible achievement but is far from sufficient. The average per capita income in this group is no more than $120 a year. At a 1 percent growth rate income levels will hardly reach $170 a year by the end of this century.

The rich, developed countries are simply not coming through with sufficient capital investment in the public or the private sector. And in many instances, Woods said, interest rates have been jacked up to such a point that a considerable share of the capital currently going in must be used to service debts. The underdeveloped countries for their part have in too many instances failed to carryout reforms essential if loans and grants are to be used profitably.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

The leaden skies looked more like November skies yesterday, with a threat of snow expected at any moment. A north wind was blowing, carrying the wild honking clangor of a flock of geese to my ears long before they became visible.

These were the big Canadian snow geese. They circled the pond, then lit on a wheat field. How their white plumage stood out against the greening field. How wise they are in getting out of the northern lakes before they freeze into the water.

If our weather is any indication of what the frosty mornings are like to the north of us, I would be taking off for a warmer climate too.

Young dogs must have some unfortunate experiences before they learn a lesson. Duke learned his yesterday. Some things do not run away when they are chased. A skunk is one of them.

The Farmer was sowing wheat while Duke chased the rabbits from a nearby alfalfa field. It was great sport for a pup, just as chasing cats about the farm has been. Suddenly Duke began rubbing his nose and head vigorously on the ground. The Farmer wondered if a nest of bumblebees had been routed by the inquisitive pup. He was not in doubt for long. Duke soon appeared alongside the tractor. The Farmer knew immediately what had happened and gave him the cold shoulder for the remainder of the day.

When I returned at night, he came bouncing to the car to be petted. Instead of greeting him with a pat on the head and puppy dog talk, I quickly backed away and ordered him to do likewise.

Such a pathetic creature I have never seen, with drooping ears and sad eyes. "A dog's life isn't fit for a dog to live," seemed to be his tale of woe.

Sometimes when I am busy in the kitchen, I turn the radio on in the dining room. If I get involved in some task, the radio blares and blares, or so it seemed this morning. To the beat of drums and guitars, one fellow sang over and over, "I've got troubles, I've got troubles." The only trouble I noticed he had was that he couldn't sing. Finally before the song ended, I turned the radio off, thinking my problem was solved. For almost half an hour after his twanging, shouting song was over, my ears rang with, "I've got troubles," to the bang of drums.

We of the older generation have to do a considerable amount of dial switching to get a station that plays music that we understand. It is joy to hear a well played piece, smooth yet lilting and melodious. The nerves aren't jangled for half an hour after the song has been completed.

I have often noticed how quickly the teenagers get the beat of music, should they be packed into a booth at a cafe. The music starts and all systems are go. Shoulders start to gyrate and heads begin to bob, sometimes looking as if the individual is not aware of his rhythm.

The loudness of the music makes little difference. If the music is loud, they talk louder. They have to or they cannot communicate. Yet, put these same young ones into a formal situation where every detail must be proper, and the majority of them will come through with flying colors.

So I will continue to listen to my mood music in the kitchen and be content to watch the bobbing heads and moving shoulders outside my kitchen. Secretly I wish that I could be as active as the youngsters but some things are best left unsaid.

Your Five Cents Worth

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing in publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

'School Bored'

Lincoln, Neb.

I am disturbed that any literature which is ultimately a bid for business, such as the insurance leaflets that came home with the school children should be allowed!

If the school board condones this sort of advertising, and the public lets them get away with it, it should be fair game to play to any group with the power to win the board's approval.

Too many people are "school bored."

Right To Dissent

Bennet, Neb.

Marquis Childs suggested in his September 28 column that Americans are losing the right to dissent. There are some alarming indications that he may be right. Certainly we as a nation do seem to be losing any concept we may have had of a loyal opposition, and without such an opposition, democracy as we have known it is impossible. At all levels in our country, the notion seems to be gaining currency that opposition, no matter how constructive, to the stated programs of the government is ipso-facto evidence of disloyalty. And on those occasions when public dissent is not attacked with charges of disloyalty, it seem to be ignored or dismissed as irresponsible or uninformed.

Acceptance by the public and the press of such an attitude is nothing less than acceptance of the principles of despotic paternalism. The slogan, "Trust me; I know in my wisdom what is best for you all," has led countless nations for countless centuries down the primrose path to totalitarian misery. A government hostile or unresponsive to the criticism of the governed, be it of a tiny minority or a huge majority, is a government over which the people have lost effective control.

It is thus imperative that we as a nation never lose sight of the fact that responsible dissent by citizens, be it of our policies in Viet Nam of the Dominican Republic or of Medicare and social welfare programs, is not only not disloyal, it is necessary to the preservation of our form of government and far from being suppressed or ignored, should be sought and encouraged. Dialogue and dispute are essential elements of a democratic system. Lose them and democracy is lost, as well.

The Commandments

Lincoln, Neb.

There are undoubtedly other issues in the community that are of more immediate concern than that of the advertisement that The Star carried on the Ten Commandments. Yet I am concerned about the way this advertisement treats the Ten Commandments because I believe it confuses rather than defines the Old Testament Law. This confusion can best be pointed out by applying the Ten Commandments to the advertisement.

(1) By using white Anglo-Saxons dressed in Sunday school pageant costumes to pictorially dramatize the Ten Commandments, the advertisement breaks the Second Commandment ("You shall not make yourself a graven image, or any likeness of anything that is in heaven or above . . .").

(2) By listing the names of the merchants and business concerns under the advertisement, the advertisement violates the Third Commandment ("You shall not take the name of the Lord your God in vain.")

(3) By stating that this advertisement represents the ministers of Lincoln, it is possible that even the Ninth Commandment has been violated ("You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor.")

Income Contrast

Tekamah, Neb.

The venomous attitude and egotistical arrogance expressed by Michael Callaghan in his letter of September 25 hardly seems to qualify him as a person capable of logical debate.

Just how historically established facts become cliches or how a reference to these facts can cause anyone to suffer nausea, I am not quite sure. I have heard, however, that there are those who prefer to live in a world disassociated from reality. It is possible, too, that Mr. Callaghan would suffer much less from this "ad nauseum" if he would occasionally try instead to add facts.

He speaks with such haughty contemptuousness of the "poverty-stricken slob" who "pays out dues money" to the organized unions that even the organization of his thinking seems to have been tragically short-changed.

To contend that labor unions were serving a good and necessary cause prior to 1940 but that they then became so corrupt that they could have been disbanded has about as much logic as to say that an automobile is fine for getting you started down the road but that at the first sign of trouble, you would of course be much better off to get rid of it. My opinion is that the walking would be just as laborious as it was in the first place.

In stating that the American worker is poorer than the lowest Arab in Kuwait where, he contends, the average family income is $30,000 a year, I am wondering if Mr. Callaghan is proposing that we rid the nation of all labor unions simply by ordering all "stupid dues-paying slobs" to have an oil well drilled in their "not-paid-for" backyards.

Figures shown in the "Economic Indicator" prove that labor income has risen slightly over 100% since 1951. This has been very much in line with total personal income but it is in sharp contrast with the more than 22% drop in farm income. Farmers, incidentally, for Mr. Callaghan's information, are not yet well enough organized to have a voice in what they are being paid. Maybe he has just been calling the wrong people "stupid."

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Widow Launched Training Program In India

By ROBERT PETERSON

Retirees with little to occupy their minds and bodies often wither into illness and oblivion. But those who latch onto stimulating careers are often going strong at 80 plus.

A classic example is Mrs. Welthy H. Fisher. A quarter-century ago she was at a point where many women begin to fade. She had her husband, a Methodist bishop, with whom she had served in Calcutta, India, later in Ann Arbor, Mich. She had limited money. She had no children. And she was past 60 years of age.

She returned to India for a visit with old acquaintances, and as she traveled about the villages—three-fifths of which have no schools whatever—found herself moved as never before by the fact that most of these human beings were deprived of any form of education. A voice inside told her she must do something to give Indian villagers at least rudimentary training.

"My first reaction was that I was probably too old," said Mrs. Fisher, 85, when I talked with her. She was recently awarded an honorary doctorate by Syracuse University. Her splendid posture, silver-gray hair, pink cheeks and animated blue eyes are evidence of the value of believing in something.

"The more I thought about it, the more I found myself believing that a new kind of training school was needed—one which would offer rapid, practical training to competent Indians who would then go into the villages and teach others.

"With the support of World Education, Inc., we started a little school to train teachers. I used some of my own funds, and wrote hundreds of personal letters to people in the U.S.—many of whom responded with checks.

"Interest was so great that our program expanded and we now have a multi-building project known as Literacy Village in Lucknow. We offer intensive four-week courses in how to teach elementary reading and writing, sanitation, family planning, and hygiene. We also write and distribute books geared to very simple vocabularies.

"In the past 12 years we've trained 7,500 Indians who, after receiving their training, have gone to live in villages where they are paid a small stipend to pass on to their countrymen what they've learned.

"People often ask why the government of India doesn't conduct this training. The answer is that the problem is too vast—with 485 million people, only 24% of whom read or write. But the government has given us every cooperation and is even sending people to us to train."

Evidence of official admiration is seen in an Indian government report which estimates that more than two million people have actually learned to read, write and lead more enlightened lives through the candle Mrs. Fisher lit in her later years.

Mrs Fisher regularly spends eight months each year in India, and the other four in her native U.S. where she raises funds, lectures, writes, and rests a bit before returning.

Let's hope Mrs. Fisher's remarkable story inspires other elders to rise from their boredom and utilize their brains in battling the blight of ignorance which still besets a majority of our brothers around the globe.

If you would like a booklet "Things Churches Can do for Older People" write to Robert Peterson, Life Begins at Forty, c/o The Lincoln Star enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

Fidel Deepens Great Guevara Riddle

Washington (AP)—Fidel Castro has deepened rather than answered one of the great riddles of Cuba — the fate of Ernesto (Che) Guevara—by announcing Guevara is no longer in Cuba.

Guevara, one of Castro's closest associates and advisers in times past, has disappeared as have others of Castro's former top lieutenants, but none under such strange circumstances.

A farewell letter attributed to Guevara, which sounded much like a political will and testament, was read by Castro at a Communist rally in Havana Sunday night. It answered some questions but left other, basic ones as obscured as ever.

Buried?

The document did not say where Guevara is, but some Cuban exiles wonder if he may not be buried at some out-of-the-way spot in Cuba, or in one of Castro's numberless prisons.

Some exiles feel that if Castro has killed Guevara, he may be heading for trouble within his regime. And one even suggests that the bearded dictator might be liquidated himself by the international Communists.

Guevara, once regarded by many as the intellectual leader of the revolutionary government, has been out of sight for six months. And he was out of step with both the Havana and Moscow regimes for an even longer time.

Made Economy Chaotic

For the early years of the Castro regime, Guevara was the country's economic czar. As such, he left Cuba's sugar industry in chaos from which it recovered only last year; and his attempts to make Cuba an industrial country plunged the island nation's economy and its administrative machinery into a tangle.

Perhaps more seriously for Castro, Guevara jolted the Kremlin by contemptuous criticism of the Soviet Union's tactics in the fields of economics, politics and international affairs. He was a strong advocate of the Peking ideology and its policy of belligerency and "wars of national liberation."

This made him a man marked by Moscow, and when Guevara returned to Cuba early this year after a trip to Africa and Red China, both Guevara and Castro disappeared for a time. Moscow keeps the Havana regime going, at a cost estimated at $1 million a day and some exiles believe Castro had to sacrifice Guevara to keep this aid.

Castro's 'Qualities'

The letter Castro read makes it clear that Guevara's role in Cuba is ended and that communist historians must regard Guevara as a man who confessed he did not understand sufficiently Castro's "qualities as director and as revolutionary."

The letter said Guevara was going to take his "modest" talents to "other lands in the world."

But officials here took note of the fact that Mrs. Guevara attended the rally at which Castro spoke, and that she was dressed in black—mourning garb in tropical Cuba.

Public's Loss Of Respect For Legal System Cited

Montreal (AP)—The executive director of an association representing lower court judges throughout Canada, the U.S., and the Caribbean said Monday the deteriorating public view of the legal system urgently calls for attention.

Albert B. Logan of Denver, Colo., executive director of the National Association of Municipal Judges, was speaking at the association's fifth annual convention. About 500 lower court judges from all parts of North America are attending.

He said that the problem of deteriorating public respect for lower courts and increasing public apathy towards law enforcement and the judicial process have been made clear by a survey conducted in the United States.

"It yielded broad evidence of public scorn for the police and the bench," he said.

He added that there is a "vast propaganda apparatus which spreads charges of police brutality and allegations of injustices, inequalities and discrimination."

But even while the courts are being shown less respect, effective action is demanded of them, he said.

"The public expects the courts to do something to curb the rising crime rate, especially among juveniles."

He said a program of court improvement has been suggested as the first step in the judicial contribution towards a solution of the problem. It would include education for judicial skills, proper compensations for judges and the enlistment of interested citizens into councils and committees.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Widow Launched Training Program In India

By ROBERT PETERSON

Retirees with little to occupy their minds and bodies often wither into illness and oblivion. But those who latch onto stimulating careers are often going strong at 80 plus.

A classic example is Mrs. Welthy H. Fisher. A quarter-century ago she was at a point where many women begin to fade. She had her husband, a Methodist bishop, with whom she had served in Calcutta, India, later in Ann Arbor, Mich. She had limited money. She had no children. And she was past 60 years of age.

She returned to India for a visit with old acquaintances, and as she traveled about the villages—three-fifths of which have no schools whatever—found herself moved as never before by the fact that most of these human beings were deprived of any form of education. A voice inside told her she must do something to give Indian villagers at least rudimentary training.

"My first reaction was that I was probably too old," said Mrs. Fisher, 85, when I talked with her. She was recently awarded an honorary doctorate by Syracuse University. Her splendid posture, silver-gray hair, pink cheeks and animated blue eyes are evidence of the value of believing in something.

"The more I thought about it, the more I found myself believing that a new kind of training school was needed—one which would offer rapid, practical training to competent Indians who would then go into the villages and teach others.

"With the support of World Education, Inc., we started a little school to train teachers. I used some of my own funds, and wrote hundreds of personal letters to people in the U.S.—many of whom responded with checks.

"Interest was so great that our program expanded and we now have a multi-building project known as Literacy Village in Lucknow. We offer intensive four-week courses in how to teach elementary reading and writing, sanitation, family planning, and hygiene. We also write and distribute books geared to very simple vocabularies.

"In the past 12 years we've trained 7,500 Indians who, after receiving their training, have gone to live in villages where they are paid a small stipend to pass on to their countrymen what they've learned.

"People often ask why the government of India doesn't conduct this training. The answer is that the problem is too vast—with 485 million people, only 24% of whom read or write. But the government has given us every cooperation and is even sending people to us to train."

Evidence of official admiration is seen in an Indian government report which estimates that more than two million people have actually learned to read, write and lead more enlightened lives through the candle Mrs. Fisher lit in her later years.

Mrs. Fisher regularly spends eight months each year in India, and the other four in her native U.S. where she raises funds, lectures, writes, and rests a bit before returning.

Let's hope Mrs. Fisher's remarkable story inspires other elders to rise from their boredom and utilize their brains in battling the blight of ignorance which still besets a majority of our brothers around the globe.

Council Denies Vanice Zone Change Request

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday nanimously denied a change f zone requested by Kaer anice, which would have alocated the Lincoln car dealr to build an estimated $400,00 new and used car ageny and service department n the northeast corner of 0th and O.

The change of zone, from i-1 planned commercial to I-1 highway business, on the ix acre triangular tract had een recommended for deal by the City-County Planing Commission.

In denying the application, ouncil members called for review of the city compreensive plan—some questiond its adequacy—and asked or a study of possible zonng changes along East O t., including the large area ounded by O, Cotner Blvd. nd the Missouri Pacific Raiload tracks.

Council Needs Stand

"Regardless of the outcome f the Vanice request, the ouncil needs to take a stand nd make a clear statement n what we intend to do out ere," said Councilman Caroll Thompson.

Attorneys for Vanice arued that a change of zone ould not set a precedent in pening the rest of East O o other highway commercial ses.

"You would be zoning this act for one particular use, nd this doesn't commit you o re-zoning the rest of East ," Lloyd Marti told the ouncil.

Hospital Community

Dr. Boykin mentioned the uture development of East in terms of a "hospital comunity," involving hospitalelated uses such as nursing omes and doctors residences.

In other action, the council eard residents of the Cars Drive neighborhood object to a storm sewer drainge project being built by the ity near the water reservoir t 77th and Vine.

The project, a concrete open flume" ditch 10 feet ide and six inches deep, will mpty rainwater run-off from e reservoir into Carlos rive. The water will then ave to travel 5 blocks beore running into a covered torm sewer outlet at Vine nd East Avon.

Clinton Hoover of 930 Colony Lane, spokesman for the objecting residents, said the open storm sewer is "very dangerous" and impractical.

Acting Director of Public Works Robert Obering estimated the water flow would be about two inches deep during rains and said the city would try to hold the water longer on reservoir property to slow down its flow.

Resolution Suspending Public Gas Sales Not Yet Approved

Acting Mayor Mrs. Helen Boosalis has not yet approved the resolution suspending public gasoline sales at the municipal gas station at 19th and Q.

Mrs. Boosalis has until Wednesday to act on the resolution, introduced by Councilman John Mason and passed 4-2 by the City Council last week.

The measure would suspend public sales for one year.

Mrs. Boosalis would not indicate Monday whether she would give the resolution her approval, but said she has requested "more background information" on the station's operation.

The councilwoman previously voted with the majority in turning down, 4-3, an ordinance which would have terminated the station's public sales completely.

As first vice chairman of the council, Mrs. Boosalis was presiding as acting mayor and did not vote on the resolution.

Mayor Dean Petersen is on vacation

Flood-Area Resolution Is Passed

A resolution designed to discourage the urban development of lands subject to flooding was passed in amended form by the City Council Monday.

The resolution prohibits the creation of special assessment districts for lands which are designated by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers as "100-year flood areas."

However, the resolution wa amended to allow its repeal as it would relate to land now designated as a 100-year flood area but subsequently proved not to be subject to flooding.

The council gave itself rather than the mayor, the power, to reclassify lands that "additional hydrological or grade studies" reveal to be not subject to flooding, or may be made safe from flooding.

The resolution also provides:

—Within the flood area, no private connection shall be permitted to public power lines or to water or sanitary sewer lines constructed after the passage of the resolution, which were installed to serve lands outside the flood area.

—Private connections may be permitted, however, to certain uses in flood areas where most of the activity of the use occurs on open land and where significant damage from flooding would not occur.

The resolution will apply to land running along Salt Creek, Haines Branch and Beals Slough, in addition to other creeks and tributaries in the Lincoln area.

150% Greater School Needs Seen

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Sheer gross building needs in the next 25 to 30 years will amount to roughly 150% of the current plant," Dean W. K. Beggs of the University of Nebraska Teachers College told the National Council on Schoolhouse Construction (NCSC) Monday night.

"The sheer weight of a growing population will determine the magnitude of schoolhouse construction that necessarily follows," he said, but other factors will be the lengthening time children spend in school and the return of many adults to school.

Some 200 members of the national council, which includes building specialists from the state departments of education, colleges, universities and public schools, the building specialist office in the U.S. Office of Education and a few school architects, convened Monday at the Nebraska Center for their four-day 42nd annual meeting.

Headaches

Discussing the demographic factors in schoolhouse construction, Beggs pointed out that population movement from one urban area to another for any reason affects educational centers and "will cause headaches you haven't even dreamed of."

While population flow will probably have the greatest effect on school placement—and Beggs did speculate some on the possibility of having movable buildings — he observed that shifting patterns of educational needs and developing technology will developing technology will determine the kind of schoolhouse construction.

"Tremendous flexibility wil have to be built into buildings," he declared.

Remarking that schoolhouse construction has "kept pace" with educational trends much more than curriculum or teacher training, Beggs however, advised the experts "to forget about building a school for perpetuity."

Challenge

He challenged the council to think about a plant where educational television dominates, or libraries which to contain enough knowledge, must use materials other than books or facilities not only for intellectual development, but also for teaching a trade and how to use leisure time.

State directors arrived early at the council meeting for a two-day seminar on fallout shelters, according to George Reida of Topeka, Kan., president of the State School Plant Planning Officials.

Monday afternoon the state directors discussed the Elementary and Secondary Education Act and elected Edward F. Wilcox of Providence R. I., president of the association and Charles Gibson of tallahhassee, Fla., president-ect.

Tuesday, Richard F. Tonigan of Columbia University, New York, will lead the NSCS council in a discussion of creative arts in planning an educational plant, including specialized secondary rooms, space analyses and assignments, building rehabilitation and construction techniques.

Troops Kill Four Rebels In Battle In Peruvian Andes

Lima, Peru (AP)— Government troops have killed 4 guerrillas and wounded 11 others in a sharp fight around Mesa Pelada in the Peruvian Andes, newspapers reported Monday.

The rebels are believed trapped by the government troops and Air Force planes flew over the area 285 miles east of Lima in an effort to detect any possible guerrilla escape routes, the papers said.

They reported three government soldiers were wounded in the fighting Saturday.

The guerrillas, estimated to number between 1,000 and 1,700, are believed to be led by about 50 hard-core Communists.

CLARK KERR

Kerr Charges Red Report Erroneous

Berkeley, Calif. (UPI) — University of California President Clark Kerr Monday released a scathing analysis of a report on Communist activity in the university prepared by the state senate subcommittee on un-American activities.

Kerr said the senate report "contains no actionable evidence against any single one of the university's more than 40,000 staff members."

"It presents half-truths, with resultant distortions, about items on which the whole truth was readily available to anyone who sought it," Kerr said.

The legislative report on Communist influence at the University created a furor earlier this year when it was released by subcommittee chairman Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno

Kerr charged that the report:

—Contains a large number of minor errors and a substantial number of serious errors.

—"Indulges in opinions and conclusions about sympathy toward Communism on the part of university personnel with no sound basis in fact.

—"Attempts to relate somehow to the current events which happened decades ago or thousands of miles away or both."

In his 42 page analysis, Kerr called on the Burns committee to either "voluntarily remove the . . . report from the protection of legislative privilege so that its contents may be examined fairly and with due process before the courts," or "officially withdrew the . . . report from issuance because of its many errors and innuendos which have resulted in such widespread and harmful publicity to individual staff members and to the entire University of California."

Sen. Aaron W. Quick, D-Calexico, and Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-West Point, worked with Burns on the report.

Teale declined to sign the finished report, saying, "It took 200 pages to say what could have been said in six pages, so far as factual material was concerned."

In Sacramento, Burns refused immediate comment

But Quick, who signed the report with Burns, said, "I think the report is factual."

Joint Water Desalting Plant Urged

Washington (AP)— The United States and Mexico have agreed in principle to study the possibilities of building an atomic plant to desalt water for areas along the U.S.-Mexico border.

Dr. Donald Hornig, the White House's chief science adviser, disclosed this at the opening of the first international symposium on water desalination.

Hornig said an agreement between the two countries is expected to be signed in Washington later this week.

The study would explore the technological and economic feaibility of building a nuclear reactor to desalt water for the arid regions of Mexico's Sonora and Baja states, and Arizona and California.

Hornig read a message to the symposium from President Johnson which said in part: "Knowledge, like thirst, belongs to all men . . . we cannot wait, for the problem will not wait."

Council Denies Vanice Zone Change Request

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday unanimously denied a change of zone requested by Kaer Vanice, which would have allocated the Lincoln car dealer to build an estimated $400,000 new and used car agency and service department on the northeast corner of 70th and O.

The change of zone, from G-1 planned commercial to H-1 highway business, on the six acre triangular tract had been recommended for denal by the City-County Planning Commission.

In denying the application, council members called for a review of the city comprehensive plan—some questioned its adequacy—and asked for a study of possible zoning changes along East O St., including the large area bounded by O, Cotner Blvd. and the Missouri Pacific Railroad tracks.

Council Needs Stand

"Regardless of the outcome of the Vanice request, the council needs to take a stand and make a clear statement on what we intend to do out there," said Councilman Carroll Thompson.

Attorneys for Vanice argued that a change of zone would not set a precedent in opening the rest of East O to other highway commercial uses.

"You would be zoning this tract for one particular use, and this doesn't commit you to re-zoning the rest of East O," Lloyd Marti told the council.

L. A. Enersen, representing St. Elizabeth Hospital, and Dr. Melvin Boykin, director of the Veterans Hospital, opposed the Vanice request because they said it would represent "a break in the zoning pattern."

Hospital Community

Dr. Boykin mentioned the future development of East O in terms of a "hospital community," involving hospital-related uses such as nursing homes and doctors residences.

In other action, the council heard residents of the Carlos Drive neighborhood object to a storm sewer drainage project being built by the city near the water reservoir at 77th and Vine.

The project, a concrete "open flume" ditch 10 feet wide and six inches deep, will empty rainwater run-off from the reservoir into Carlos Drive. The water will then have to travel 5 blocks before running into a covered storm sewer outlet at Vine and East Avon.

Clinton Hoover of 930 Colony Lane, spokesman for the objecting residents, said the open storm sewer is "very dangerous" and impractical.

Acting Director of Public Works Robert Obering estimated the water flow would be about two inches deep during rains and said the city would try to hold the water longer on reservoir property to slow down its flow.

Resolution Suspending Public Gas Sales Not Yet Approved

Acting Mayor Mrs. Helen Boosalis has not yet approved the resolution suspending public gasoline sales at the municipal gas station at 19th and Q.

Mrs. Boosalis has until Wednesday to act on the resolution, introduced by Councilman John Mason and passed 4-2 by the City Council last week.

The measure would suspend public sales for one year.

Mrs. Boosalis would not indicate Monday whether she would give the resolution her approval, but said she has requested "more background information" on the station's operation.

The councilwoman previously voted with the majority in turning down, 4-3, an ordinance which would have terminated the station's public sales completely.

As first vice chairman of the council, Mrs. Boosalis was presiding as acting mayor and did not vote on the resolution.

Mayor Dean Petersen is on vacation

Flood-Area Resolution Is Passed

A resolution designed to discourage the urban development of lands subject to flooding was passed in amended form by the City Council Monday.

The resolution prohibits the creation of special assessment districts for lands which are designated by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers as "100-year flood areas."

However, the resolution wa amended to allow its repeal as it would relate to land now designated as a 100-year flood area but subsequently proved not to be subject to flooding.

The council gave itself rather than the mayor, the power, to reclassify lands that "additional hydrological or grade studies" reveal to be not subject to flooding, or may be made safe from flooding.

The resolution also provides:

—Within the flood area, no private connection shall be permitted to public power lines or to water or sanitary sewer lines constructed after the passage of the resolution, which were installed to serve lands outside the flood area.

—Private connections may be permitted, however, to certain uses in flood areas where most of the activity of the use occurs on open land and where significant damage from flooding would not occur.

The resolution will apply to land running along Salt Creek, Haines Branch and Beals Slough, in addition to other creeks and tributaries in the Lincoln area.

150% Greater School Needs Seen

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Sheer gross building needs in the next 25 to 30 years will amount to roughly 150% of the current plant," Dean W. K. Beggs of the University of Nebraska Teachers College told the National Council on Schoolhouse Construction (NCSC) Monday night.

"The sheer weight of a growing population will determine the magnitude of schoolhouse construction that necessarily follows," he said, but other factors will be the lengthening time children spend in school and the return of many adults to school.

Some 200 members of the national council, which includes building specialists from the state departments of education, colleges, universities and public schools, the building specialist office in the U.S. Office of Education and a few school architects, convened Monday at the Nebraska Center for their four-day 42nd annual meeting.

Headaches

Discussing the demographic factors in schoolhouse construction, Beggs pointed out that population movement from one urban area to another for any reason affects educational centers and "will cause headaches you haven't even dreamed of."

While population flow will probably have the greatest effect on school placement—and Beggs did speculate some on the possibility of having movable buildings — he observed that shifting patterns of educational needs and developing technology will developing technology will determine the kind of schoolhouse construction.

"Tremendous flexibility wil have to be built into buildings," he declared.

Remarking that schoolhouse construction has "kept pace" with educational trends much more than curriculum or teacher training, Beggs however, advised the experts "to forget about building a school for perpetuity."

Challenge

He challenged the council to think about a plant where educational television dominates, or libraries which to contain enough knowledge, must use materials other than books or facilities not only for intellectual development, but also for teaching a trade and how to use leisure time.

State directors arrived early at the council meeting for a two-day seminar on fallout shelters, according to George Reida of Topeka, Kan., president of the State School Plant Planning Officials.

Monday afternoon the state directors discussed the Elementary and Secondary Education Act and elected Edward F. Wilcox of Providence R. I., president of the association and Charles Gibson of tallahhassee, Fla., president-ect.

Tuesday, Richard F. Tonigan of Columbia University, New York, will lead the NSCS council in a discussion of creative arts in planning an educational plant, including specialized secondary rooms, space analyses and assignments, building rehabilitation and construction techniques.

Troops Kill Four Rebels In Battle In Peruvian Andes

Lima, Peru (AP)— Government troops have killed 4 guerrillas and wounded 11 others in a sharp fight around Mesa Pelada in the Peruvian Andes, newspapers reported Monday.

The rebels are believed trapped by the government troops and Air Force planes flew over the area 285 miles east of Lima in an effort to detect any possible guerrilla escape routes, the papers said.

They reported three government soldiers were wounded in the fighting Saturday.

The guerrillas, estimated to number between 1,000 and 1,700, are believed to be led by about 50 hard-core Communists.

CLARK KERR

Kerr Charges Red Report Erroneous

Berkeley, Calif. (UPI) — University of California President Clark Kerr Monday released a scathing analysis of a report on Communist activity in the university prepared by the state senate subcommittee on un-American activities.

Kerr said the senate report "contains no actionable evidence against any single one of the university's more than 40,000 staff members."

"It presents half-truths, with resultant distortions, about items on which the whole truth was readily available to anyone who sought it," Kerr said.

The legislative report on Communist influence at the University created a furor earlier this year when it was released by subcommittee chairman Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno.

Kerr charged that the report:

—Contains a large number of minor errors and a substantial number of serious errors.

—"Indulges in opinions and conclusions about sympathy toward Communism on the part of university personnel with no sound basis in fact.

—"Attempts to relate somehow to the current events which happened decades ago or thousands of miles away or both."

In his 42 page analysis, Kerr called on the Burns committee to either "voluntarily remove the . . . report from the protection of legislative privilege so that its contents may be examined fairly and with due process before the courts," or "officially withdrew the . . . report from issuance because of its many errors and innuendos which have resulted in such widespread and harmful publicity to individual staff members and to the entire University of California."

Sen. Aaron W. Quick, D-Calexico, and Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-West Point, worked with Burns on the report.

Teale declined to sign the finished report, saying, "It took 200 pages to say what could have been said in six pages, so far as factual material was concerned."

In Sacramento, Burns refused immediate comment.

But Quick, who signed the report with Burns, said, "I think the report is factual."

Joint Water Desalting Plant Urged

Washington (AP)— The United States and Mexico have agreed in principle to study the possibilities of building an atomic plant to desalt water for areas along the U.S.-Mexico border.

Dr. Donald Hornig, the White House's chief science adviser, disclosed this at the opening of the first international symposium on water desalination.

Hornig said an agreement between the two countries is expected to be signed in Washington later this week.

The study would explore the technological and economic feaibility of building a nuclear reactor to desalt water for the arid regions of Mexico's Sonora and Baja states, and Arizona and California.

Hornig read a message to the symposium from President Johnson which said in part: "Knowledge, like thirst, belongs to all men . . . we cannot wait, for the problem will not wait."

Eastern Europe Still Filled With Hate For Russia, Declares Seaton

Berlin (AP) — Fred Seaton, secretary of the interior under President Dwight D. Eisenhower, said Monday he felt that "Eastern Europe was still filled with hate for the Soviet Union and dissatisfaction with Communism's way of getting things done."

In an interview, Seaton, president of the Seaton Publishing Co. of Hastings, Neb., said that his tour of Eastern Europe earlier this year gave him the impression of continued resistance to the Russian presence.

Contrary to some generally held beliefs that things will be smoother for the Russians behind their own Iron Curtain as time goes by, Seaton added, "I think things will get worse."

"From East Germany to Romania resistance to the Soviet Union and Communism continues to exist," he said. "Eastern Europe is an area of great national heritages. They know what they are missing and they know that communism is not delivering it. They want a chance to do better for themselves."

Seaton, who also visited the Soviet Union this year, added that the Soviet position is further complicated by their own internal problems.

"They do not keep changing their economic and production approaches because they want to," he said. "They keep changing because they have to."

Seaton is in West Berlin as part of a group of 60 U.S. business and civic leaders on a two week tour of Europe under sponsorship of Radio Free Europe, which broadcasts into the Communist-held east.

The group leaves for Munich in West Germany Tuesday. Radio Free Europe has its headquarters in Munich.

Seaton said that Berlin has taken on a special meaning for him because of a phone call he received from Nebraska last June while in the divided city.

"We have four adopted children," he said, "one of them a German boy, Alfred, soon to be 18. Last June 1 I got this call here and I feared all sorts of dire things.

"But it was Alfred calling to tell he he had been named editor of the Hastings High School yearbook. Considering the boy's origin I felt Germany was an especially fitting place to learn the good news."

Curtis Urges Action On Legislation For Boxcars

Washington (AP) — House action this session on bills designed to encourage production of boxcars has been urged by Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb.

Hearings are expected to be held this week by the House Commerce Committee on such bills, including a Senate-passed measure.

Curtis wrote Chairman Oren Harris, D-Ark., of the committee that there has been an alarming drop in the number of boxcars. He noted that from April 1 to May 1 there had been a decline of 3,633.

Big losses have been suffered by consumers, producers and shippers because of the declining supply, he said.

The Senate-passed bill would authorize the Interstate Commerce Commission to increase daily rental charges railroads pay for boxcars used on their lines but owned by other railroads.

Dirksen Begins His Filibuster

. . . ON RIGHT-TO-WORK

Washington (AP)— Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., began his promised filibuster Monday against initial efforts to call up an administration-backed bill to repeal Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Law.

Dirksen described his verbal blockade against the measure, which would revoke the states' authority to ban union shops, as "extended discussion" and as part of the democratic process.

"Whenever a substantial minority opposes a bill," he told the Senate, "it owes it to the country, it owes it to itself, and it owes it to the Senate as an institution to use all available weapons to make sure the full story, is told."

May Read 3,000

Dirksen, the Republican floor leader, said that for one thing he has 3,000 newspaper editorials on the subject and commented:

"I may be compelled to read all 3,000 and more."

He also said he has "sacks full" of mail. Much of this, he said, is from union members who oppose the bill.

"If I brought those sacks in here, those letters would cascade over my desk and bury it," he said. The AFL-CIO has been pushing for passage of the bill.

Under 14B authority, 19 states now have laws prohibiting union shop contracts under which an employe must join the union to hold his job.

House Passed Bill

The House passed the repeal bill July 28. Administration leaders say they have about 56 Senate votes, or enough to pass the measure, but they are not claiming they have the two-thirds majority needed to break a filibuster.

Dirksen said the opposition he has lined up is prepared to talk indefinitely.

"If anybody thinks we're bluffing, get it out of your mind," he said. He contended the real issue is sovereignty of the states.

The bill, Dirksen said, would "plow an atomic hole in the whole system of federal-state relations as constructed for us by our forefathers."

He declared Section 14B has been on the books 18 years "and it's got to stay there if we do our duty to the people of this country."

New Fighting Explodes In Communist Province

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—New fierce fighting between government and Viet Cong forces exploded Monday in a Communist-dominated province 275 miles northeast of Saigon and a U.S. military spokesman described Vietnamese losses as heavy.

He said the combat raged in Binh Dinh province, the scene of two bloody fights between communists and the Vietnamese in the last two weeks.

As the fighting erupted, South Viet Nam protested to the International Control Commission that North Vietnamese regular army troops were used in the province last week.

Elsewhere, a major clash appeared to be developing in the province of An Xuygen, 130 miles southwest of Saigon, and a U.S. Marine spokesman reported a leatherneck patrol, ambushed Sunday near Da Nang, had 10 of its 13 members killed or wounded.

In the air war, U.S. planes plastered targets in North and South Viet Nam and on the South China Sea coast. One plane was lost and the pilot killed.

There was no estimate of enemy losses in the new fighting in Binh Dinh province. Casualties among U.S. advisers with the government troops were described as light.

The U.S. spokesman said a Vietnamese battalion protecting engineers working on a bridge destroyed in heavy fighting last week near Phu Cu Pass came under Viet Cong attack.

The province, a Viet Cong stronghold, is where U.S. advisers reported 3,000 guerrillas massing last week.

In its protest to the control commission, South Viet Nam said it had captured troops from three regiments of the North Vietnamese 325th division in thePhu Cu fighting and protested their presence as a violation of the 1954 Geneva agreement. U.S. military authorities have confirmed the presence of at least one regiment of the division in the central highlands since early this year.

No. Viet Premier Says Antiaircraft Missiles In Use

Tokyo (AP)—North Viet Nam's Premier Pham Van Dong has told a Japanese interviewer that antiaircraft missiles have been used against U.S. warplanes over North Viet Nam.

The statement to foreign news editor Shoryu Hata of Asahi Shimbun, one of Japan's largest newspapers, was the first time a ranking North Vietnamese official had confirmed the use of such missiles.

An F105 Thunderchief was downed and its pilot presumed killed last Thursday, apparently by a Russian-made missile. Three other U.S. planes were downed by missiles earlier.

The North Vietnamese premier did not say when the missiles were used.

Georgia Klansman Arrested In Assault

Crawfordville, Ga. (AP) — Georgia's Ku Klux Klan grand dragon was arrested Monday and charged with assault after he grabbed a Negro demonstrator who had tried to run past a line of state police.

Troopers wrestled or threw several Negroes to the ground when the demonstrators tried to break past the officers and board a school bus carrying white children.

It was the seventh day of demonstrations seeking school integration.

The Klan dragon, Calvin F. Craig of Atlanta, was taken into custody shortly after the incident on a charge of assault and battery. The warrant was signed by a trooper.

Released

Craig was released on $100 bond and his trial was set for next February.

Craig, who charged that his arrest was politically motivated, said he grabbed the Negro as the demonstrator tried to hit an officer. The Klan leader grabbed the arm of 17-year-old Frank Bates after the youth's attempt to run around the troopers.

A trooper threw a body block on Bates and wrestled him to the ground. After the officer had pulled Bates to his feet, Craig grasped the Negro's arm and a trooper held the youth's other arm.

Craig released his hold after a few moments.

Twelve Negroes, most of them teen-agers or children, showed up at the stop where white pupils board buses for schools in surrounding counties. The demonstrations began a week ago to protest all the white pupils in Taliaferro County transferring from their school to avoid integration.

'Kill Them'

When the Negroes were blocked by troopers, there were shouts of encouragement from a white crowd of about 30 persons. Craig's companion, who said he was Robert Brock of Atlanta, yelled: "Kill them! Kill them!"

Brock, who at first identified himself as Herman Jones, said he was a lieutenant in the Klan's security guard.

Craig told newsmen at the scene that unless Gov. Carl E. Sanders enforces truancy laws to get the Negro children back into their school, then the Klan will hold rallies and demonstrations to increase tension.

"We'll have demonstrations and rallies to create enough tension to force him to do something," Craig said.

After his arrest, the Klansman charged that the governor had issued the order. "It was a personal thing from the governor," he said.

Rail Wreck Kills Scores

Durban, South Africa (UPI) —Three cars of a passenger train carrying 1,500 homeward-bound African workers derailed Monday, killing an estimated 150 persons and injuring hundreds more.

More than 40 ambulances rushed to the scene about 10 miles from this eastern seaport city. One eyewitness said hundreds of Africans lay along a 350-yard stretch of torn-up track.

Earlier reports said 2,000 Africans had assembled and were marching to the scene.

Officials said a white signalman, W. Hartslief, 20, rushed from his signal box to assist the injured but was confronted by a frenzied mob of African passengers. The officials said the signalman was hacked and beaten to death.

The Natal North Coast Line train was carrying the workers from Durban to their homes at Kwa Mashu township, about 10 miles from downtown Durban. The accident was described by city officials as "the worst in the city's history.

The ticket examiner aboard then a bump. Then I brought the train said, "There was a terrific crunching noise and then the van overturned."

The engineer added that he heard a "terrible noise" and the train to a halt," he said.

Unions End Missile Strike After 19 Days

Seattle (AP)—Machinist Union members at Boeing Co., installations from here to Cape Kennedy, Florida, voted Monday to end their 19-day-old strike against the big aerospace firm.

Charles F. West, general vice president of the union, said the members voted by an 8-1 majority to accept the settlement reached by negotiators here early Sunday. They will return to work Tuesday.

The announcement was made after returns were sent in from membership meetings in Seattle, Wichita, Kan., New Orleans and Cape Kennedy.

West said some scattered returns from Minuteman missile sites were still out.

'Border Crossing Is Halted'

New Delhi, India (AP)—India claimed Monday it has halted a Pakistani attempt to cross the cease-fire line in the Lahore sector of the western front.

A defense ministry communique said the Pakistanis tried to cross a canal, which forms part of the outer defenses of the Pakistani city of Lahore, and move into territory India seized in the 22-day war that ostensibly ended with the U.N. cease-fire.

"Our troops have checked such moves," the communique said.

It charged Parkistan with "several fresh cease-fire violations" along the front from Kashmir in the north to the Indian state of Rajasthan in the south.

In Rawalpindi, a Pakistani communique said Indian and Pakistani forces battled in the Chhamb sector of southern Kashmir. The communique said Indian forces launched an attack Monday morning with a "sizeable force" against Pakistani posts. It said the attack was made on the Pakistani line of control in the hills north of Chhamb.

Havana, Cuba (AP)—Deputy Premier Otakar Simunek of Czechoslovakia has arrived in Havana to sign a trade agreement, Cuban officials said. Details of the agreement, expected to run until 1970, were not announced.

Fortas Takes Seat

Washington (AP) — Abe Fortas, in a new black robe as President Johnson's first appointment to the U.S. Supreme Court, took the newcomer's seat behind the polished bench Monday.

After eight justices filed into the red velvet draped chamber, Chief Justice Earl Warren announced the resignation of Arthur J. Goldberg, who left the court last summer to become the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

"His service here was brief but distinguished and he has left an indelible mark in our jurisprudence," Warren said.

Next, Warren announced the appointment of "the honorable Abe Fortas of Tennessee" to replace Goldberg "in this year of the independence of the United States of America, the 190th."

Fortas, who had stood by the clerk's desk, took his judicial oath from the clerk to "administer justice without respect to persons and do equal right to the poor and to the rich . . ."

The marshal escorted Fortas to his chair at the end of the bench on Warren's left. By tradition, the justice next to Fortas, Potter Stewart, shook Fortas' hand and said, "Welcome Mr. Justice."

From his place in the center, Warren said, "Mr. Justice Fortas, we welcome you to this court."

It was over in a few minutes. Before the court convened, the 55-year-old Fortas, in the presence of only the other justices, had taken his oath to support and defend the Constitution against all enemies.

His wife, also a lawyer, watched the ceremony from a front row.

GRAND DRAGON . . . talks to newsmen.

Georgia Klansman Arrested In Assault

Crawfordville, Ga (AP) — Georgia's Ku Klux Klan grand dragon was arrested Monday and charged with assault after he grabbed a Negro demonstrator who had tried to run past a line of state police.

Troopers wrestled or threw several Negroes to the ground when the demonstrators tried to break past the officers and board a school bus carrying white children.

It was the seventh day of demonstrations seeking school integration.

The Klan dragon, Calvin F. Craig of Atlanta, was taken into custody shortly after the incident on a charge of assault and battery. The warrant was signed by a trooper.

Released

Craig was released on $100 bond and his trial was set for next February

Craig, who charged that his arrest was politically motivated, said he grabbed the Negro as the demonstrator tried to hit an officer. The Klan leader grabbed the arm of 17-year-old Frank Bates after the youth's attempt to run around the troopers.

A trooper threw a body block on Bates and wrestled him to the ground. After the officer had pulled Bates to his feet, Craig grasped the Negro's arm and a trooper held the youth's other arm.

Craig released his hold after a few moments.

Twelve Negroes, most of them teen-agers or children, showed up at the stop where white pupils board buses for schools in surrounding counties. The demonstrations began a week ago to protest all the white pupils in Taliaferro County transferring from their school to avoid integration.

'Kill Them'

When the Negroes were blocked by troopers, there were shouts of encouragement from a white crowd of about 30 persons Craig's companion, who said he was Robert Brock of Atlanta, yelled: "Kill them! Kill them!"

Brock, who at first identified himself as Herman Jones, said he was a lieutenant in the Klan's security guard.

Craig told newsmen at the scene that unless Gov. Carl E. Sanders enforces truancy laws to get the Negro children back into their school, then the Klan will hold rallies and demonstrations to increase tension.

"We'll have demonstrations and rallies to create enough tension to force him to do something," Craig said.

After his arrest, the Klansman charged that the governor had issued the order. "It was a personal thing from the governor," he said.

UPI Leader Names Two

New York (UPI)—Two executive appointments were announced Monday by Mims Thompson, president and general manager of United Press International

Peter S Willett was appointed general manager of the UPI audio department. Willett was formerly business manager of central and southern divisions and central division news-picture manager.

George H. Pipal was appointed a general sales executive with an immediate assignment to UPI Unistox sales. Pipal has been general business manager for UPI in the European division.

Rail Wreck Kills Scores

Durban, South Africa (UPI) —Three cars of a passenger train carrying 1,500 homeward-bound African workers derailed Monday, killing an estimated 150 persons and injuring hundreds more.

More than 40 ambulances rushed to the scene about 10 miles from this eastern seaport city. One eyewitness said hundreds of Africans lay along a 350-yard stretch of torn-up track.

Earlier reports said 2,000 Africans had assembled and were marching to the scene.

Officials said a white signalman, W. Hartslief, 20, rushed from his signal box to assist the injured but was confronted by a frenzied mob of African passengers. The officials said the signalman was hacked and beaten to death.

The Natal North Coast Line train was carrying the workers from Durban to their homes at Kwa Mashu township, about 10 miles from downtown Durban. The accident was described by city officials as "the worst in the city's history.

The ticket examiner aboard then a bump. Then I brought the train said, "There was a terrific crunching noise and then the van overturned."

The engineer added that he heard a "terrible noise" and the train to a halt," he said.

Unions End Missile Strike After 19 Days

Seattle (AP)—Machinist Union members at Boeing Co., installations from here to Cape Kennedy, Florida, voted Monday to end their 19-day-old strike against the big aerospace firm.

Charles F. West, general vice president of the union, said the members voted by an 8-1 majority to accept the settlement reached by negotiators here early Sunday. They will return to work Tuesday.

The announcement was made after returns were sent in from membership meetings in Seattle, Wichita, Kan., New Orleans and Cape Kennedy.

West said some scattered returns from Minuteman missile sites were still out.

'Border Crossing Is Halted'

New Delhi, India (AP)—India claimed Monday it has halted a Pakistani attempt to cross the cease-fire line in the Lahore sector of the western front.

A defense ministry communique said the Pakistanis tried to cross a canal, which forms part of the outer defenses of the Pakistani city of Lahore, and move into territory India seized in the 22-day war that ostensibly ended with the U.N. cease-fire.

"Our troops have checked such moves," the communique said.

It charged Parkistan with "several fresh cease-fire violations" along the front from Kashmir in the north to the Indian state of Rajasthan in the south.

In Rawalpindi, a Pakistani communique said Indian and Pakistani forces battled in the Chhamb sector of southern Kashmir The communique said Indian forces launched an attack Monday morning with a "sizeable force" against Pakistani posts. It said the attack was made on the Pakistani line of control in the hills north of Chhamb.

Fortas Takes Seat

Washington (AP) — Abe Fortas, in a new black robe as President Johnson's first appointment to the U S. Supreme Court, took the newcomer's seat behind the polished bench Monday

After eight justices filed into the red velvet draped chamber, Chief Justice Earl Warren announced the resignation of Arthur J. Goldberg, who left the court last summer to become the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

"His service here was brief but distinguished and he has left an indelible mark in our jurisprudence." Warren said.

Next, Warren announced the appointment of "the honorable Abe Fortas of Tennessee" to replace Goldberg "in this year of the independence of the United States of America, the 190th."

Fortas, who had stood by the clerk's desk, took his judicial oath from the clerk to "administer justice without respect to persons and do equal right to the poor and to the rich . . ."

The marshal escorted Fortas to his chair at the end of the bench on Warren's left. By tradition, the justice next to Fortas, Potter Stewart, shook Fortas' hand and said, 'Welcome Mr. Justice."

From his place in the center, Warren said, "Mr. Justice Fortas, we welcome you to this court "

It was over in a few minutes. Before the court convened, the 55-year-old Fortas, in the presence of only the other justices, had taken his oath to support and defend the Constitution against all enemies.

His wife, also a lawyer, watched the ceremony from a front row.

POSTCARD — by Stan Delaplane

Autumn is now trembling on the brink. (If you haven't held up Brink's yet, get a Halloween mask and go to work. Everybody seems to be doing it. And Christmas is coming.)

And on all sides of us, crime has become chic.

That is the word from the psycho department of greater understanding.

Mama would not buy the child an ax. To chop up the piano and the kids next door. The boy is frustrated. Feels inadequate.

He grows up. And now we find him in the peekaboo mask and the lady-from-Bristol, fully loaded in his pants pocket.

On the other hand, this can be avoided by buying a hi-fi set. The Journal of Psychiatry in Zurich reports: "A hi-fi set is a power symbol. Along with oversize automobiles, it is the American way of reassuring themselves."

That is why I am not down at the bank. Passing the old note through the windows to the pretty teller.

I have one of the highest, fiest sets in the power business. A caseful of tweeters and woofers and things that make the music go round and round and come out here.

It has AM and FM, a tape deck and a record player.

When I turn the power on, we shake the neighborhood. I feel adequate.

I have audiophilia. "The audiophiliac," says the Journal, "is a middle-aged male and intelligent. He comes from professions requiring highly conscientious performance: the church, accountancy, medicine and especially psychiatry." (Get that! And the Journal is trying to cure me.)

Power symbols come from childhood frustrations. Remember the ax?

If my mother had bought me an ax and let me cut up the boy next door like a chicken, I would not now be blasting the neighbors with high decibels.

What's new pussycat? "A record collection," says the Journal, "becomes a symbolic harem." (The passion of the Pasha!)

"He turns the sound up until it reaches the physical level of pain.

"An audiophiliac's wife almost always demands that the volume be turned down." (Much good it will do her! I like music!)

Now the tricky part. Does the wife do this because her eardrums are blasted. Or it keeps the baby awake? Or the people next door are beating on the walls?

No, sir. Psychiatry is not letting you off so simply. Send your brain to the laundry and it comes back with some buttons missing.

Says the Journal wisely: "The audiophiliac's wife recognizes a rival. As shrill and discordant as herself."

That takes care of Mrs. Audiophiliac.

It is pleasant these fall hi-fi days to know what's wrong with you. Even better to know that you are solving it harmlessly. The man without hi-fi is sacking the local damper.

No point in saying, "Turn it down!" That's as frustrating as not buying me the ax.

The popcorn's in the popper. The beer is on the ice. The needle is in the groove. And all God's chillun got hi-fi.

Opinion Told On Funds For School Land Sales

The State Justice Department held Monday that the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds can not use noxious weed control funds or land sale receipts to help pay the costs of selling Nebraska's 1.6 million acres of state school lands.

The Legislature, after authorizing sale of the lands during the recent session, passed a resolution directing the Board of Educational Lands and Funds to use portions of weed control money to finance appraisals of the school lands.

The Justice Department, in an opinion for Board Chairman H. L. Blackledge of Kearney, said the resolution "must be disregarded" because it violates the State Constitution.

The department noted that a constitutional provision states "no money shall be diverted from any appropriation made for any purpose or taken from any fund whatever, either by joint or separate resolution."

In addition, the department declared:

Would Violate

"It is our opinion that the use of any of the proceeds of the sales of school lands for payment of the costs of sale would constitute an appropriation of the school funds to accomplish an object other than the support of the common schools, and therefore would be in violation of the State Constitution."

Blackledge and other members of the board, who were opposed to selling the school lands, have protested that the Legislature failed to provide sufficient funds to implement the school lands sale bill, LB234.

The Legislature set aside $52,000 specifically for the sales and passed the resolution which supporters said would permit the board to use part of the $72,824 weed control appropriation to pay sale costs.

The school lands are to go on the auction block as leases on the lands expire, but appraisals of the tracts must be made before they can be sold.

Leases on 294 tracts covering 69,000 acres are scheduled to expire Dec. 31, and board officials estimated independent appraisals of the 294 tracts alone would cost $58,000.

In a Pinch

Board Secretary John P. Olson noted that the prohibition against using other funds for land sale purposes does put the board in a pinch, but he noted that the Justice Department in a previous opinion said "leases can be extended on a year to year basis when that would serve the best interests of the state."

"Apparently we could extend the leases until we get the appraisals in shape," Olson said. "As a practical matter, it takes six months to complete a sale transaction anyway."

Olson said the calling of a special session of the Legislature to provide an additional appropriation for land sale costs "is a possibility."

The board probably will discuss Monday's Justice Department opinion at its regular meeting next Monday in Lincoln, Olson said.

Dunlevey To Head Motor Vehicles Dept.

Gov. Frank Morrison Monday named his special assistant, James E. Dunlevey, as acting director of the State Motor Vehicles Department.

Dunlevey

The governor said Dunlevey, a 33-year-old attorney, has "a specific mandate to vigorously administer and enforce the implied consent law."

The appointment is effective Nov. 1.

Bernard H. G. Eiting resigned as director one week ago at the request of Gov. Morrison after Morrison voiced dissatisfaction with Eiting's administering of the implied consent law.

The implied consent law provides that motorists, when they apply for a driver's license, give their consent to taking sobriety tests should they be stopped by law enforcement officers as drunken driving suspects.

The law states that failure to submit to such a test for other than "reasonable cause" shall result in a one-year license revocation. There is a provision for a hearing before the motor vehicles director or an assistant.

Last year, according to Motor Vehicles Department records, more than 60% of Nebraska drivers who refused sobriety tests were judged to have done so for "reasonable cause."

Dunlevey said Omaha attorney Raymond W. McNamara, who conducted most of the implied consent hearings for Eiting, will be dismissed. Dunlevey said he will personally conduct most of the hearings at the outset.

Dunlevey, a 1964 graduate from the University of Nebraska College of Law, received an annual salary of $8,000 as gubernatorial special assistant. Morrison said he will receive a salary boost when he assumes the new post.

Eiting's salary was $8,000.

Assuming Dunlevey's old chores will be David Evans, 23, of Hastings, who has been assigned to the governor's office by the National Center for Education and Politics at New York City. Evans, a political science graduate from Rutgers University, will be paid with funds supplied by the Ford Foundation.

Head Start Is Praised Locally

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Project Head Start, the summer Economic Opportunity Act program designed to provide enriching experiences to disadvantaged children, received praise Monday from Lincoln parents and project teachers, but apparently caused some problems for kindergarten school teachers this fall.

Miss Doris D. Roberts, kindergar teacher at Elliott Elementary School, had suggestions for future Head Start programs and d several problems which concerned teachers at the beginning of school, although she added she "didn't mean to infer the problems are any direct result of Head Start."

Two-thirds of her children were Head Starters.

Miss Roberts noted she had more than a usual number of behavior problems in her kidergarten class, with aggressive behavior of some children being a large part of the trouble. Head Start has been credited with eliminating the extreme shyness of many pre-school youngsters.

The kindergarten teacher advised the Group Work Section that future Head Start personnel be "carefully selected" to insure that instructors "know how to be good to children and yet be firm."

Another suggestion Miss Roberts made Monday was to include original units and projects, aimed to teach specifically individual skills to head starters, in order not to conflict with the kindergarten program in schools.

The Elliott teacher h d praise for the physical reports and dental exams, and added that the group experiences of tours and f trips "provided a good background for things we will talk about and do in kindergarten and later when the children start reading."

Included on the panel was Mrs. Helen Adams, mother of a Head Start girl and a teacher assistant at the Malone Center, who said that many parents and especially mothers on Aid to Dependent Children or welfare cases felt that "something promised was finally being delivered."

The panel agreed that the Head Start children had shown many accomplishments, but there was a need to continue the program next summer and do more in the Head Starters homes.

Miss Susan Hyland, Head Start teacher at the Child Development Laboratory, and Sanford Nelson, principal at Elliott Elementary, also addressed the Group Work members.

Post Office To Add Workers For Christmas Season

Postmaster General John A. Gronouski said that the Post Office Department will hire 147,000 temporary workers for the Christmas season under new hiring procedures which it has developed jointly with the Civil Service Commission.

He said that the new hiring system, based on experience and merit qualifications, provides for filling Christmas jobs in the following order:

1. Those with prior satisfactory experience during a Christmas Season will be given first consideration, with available veterans given priority.

2. If there are insufficient applicants in the first group, those who are on regular civil service registers of job eligibles for clerk, carrier or mail handler positions will be considered next.

3. If there are not enough applic ts from the first two groups, a special civil service examination will be conducted and the Christmas assistants will be selected from among successful competitors. This examination will be a standard Civil Service Commission test to be used throughout the postal service for Christmas employment, and the usual veterans preference points will apply.

In all offices where Christmas assistants are to be hired postmasters will place a public notice in their lobbies explaining the prescribed hiring procedures. A date will be designated after which applications will not be accepted (except from veterans with service-connected disabilities of 10 percent or more).

Local Cooperatives Mergers Urged

. . . TO GIVE FARMERS SIZE, STRENGTH

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

The need for more mergers and consolidation of local cooperatives to provide size and strength for farmers to keep pace with the trend to bigness was encouraged by James R. Williams, president of the Wichita Bank for Cooperatives in his address at the 49th annual meeting of the Equity Union Grain Co. here Monday.

Grain cooperative boards and managers from Nebraska, Colorado and Kansas attended the day-long sessions.

Willard W. Cantin, Equity general manager, said that in the face of 36% cut in government storage and in spite of a below average wheat crop volume profits had held up well for Equity Union Grain Co. with income other than storage up 11% for a net savings of $210,000 or 5.46% return on net worth.

Cantin encouraged the cooperatives to consider export facilities at New Orleans which he said were essential if farmers wanted to compete with giant firms in the export business.

Two Problems

Cantin termed low margins and a perennial boxcar shortage as two problems of the industry.

He credited the addition of 40 hopper cars controlled by the cooperative as "doing a great deal to relieving the boxcar shortage."

Cantin announced that Equity Union has initiated the use of laboratory tests on every car and truckload of wheat to determine mill mixes on a more exact and scientific basis to help merchandising the farmers grain.

Lloyd Henwood, secretaryf of the Manitoba Pool Elevators of Winnipeg, Canada, who explained his organization's method of merchandising grain, said the wet weather bothering U.S. farmers has robbed Canada of what looked like a record crop

Prospects Dimmed

"Our prospects were excellent, our first wheat harvested graded high, but we have wheat laying in swaths and the deterioration of quality has been serious. There is no way to tell how bad our losses will be at this time," said Henwood.

Roy F. Hendrickson, executive secretary of the National Federation of Grain Cooperatives, Washington, D.C., supported present congressional plans for a four year farm program as "one of the best moves yet."

Hendrickson warned that to provide too much grain to under-developed countries would "destroy initiative for the people to help themselves."

He termed the eight years of agricultural under the Ezra Benson area as secretary of agriculture as, "lost time and missed opportunity."

Hendrickson, who has a lifetime of newspaper and government service, said, "We are now an urban society, and we wouldn't have farm programs if our urban congressmen didn't recognize the vulnerability of agriculture and it's importance as a great market."

Head Start Is Praised Locally

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Project Head Start, the summer Economic Opportunity Act program designed to provide enriching experiences to disadvantaged children, received praise Monday from Lincoln parents and project teachers, but apparently caused some problems for kindergarten school teachers this fall.

Miss Doris D. Roberts, kindergar' teacher at Elliott Elementary School, had suggestions for future Head Start programs and 1 several problems which concerned teachers at the beginning of school, although she added she "didn't mean to infer the problems are any direct result of Head Start."

Two-thirds of her children were Head Starters.

Miss Roberts noted she had more than a usual number of behavior problems in her kindergarten class, with aggressive behavior of some children being a large part of the trouble. Head Start has been credited with eliminating the extreme shyness of many pre-school youngsters.

The kindergarten teacher advised the Group Work Section that future Head Start personnel be "carefully selected" to insure that instructors "know how to be good to children and yet be firm."

Another suggestion Miss Roberts made Monday was to include original units and projects, aimed to teach specifically individual skills to head starters, in order not to conflict with the kindergarten program in schools.

The Elliott teacher h d praise for the physical reports and dental exams, and added that the group experiences of tours and f trios "provided a good background for things we will talk about and do in kindergarten and later when the children start reading."

Included on the panel was Mrs. Helen Adams, mother of a Head Start girl and a teacher assistant at the Malone Center, who said that many parents and especially mothers on Aid to Dependent Children or welfare cases felt that "something promised was finally being delivered."

The panel agreed that the Head Start children had shown many accomplishments, but there was a need to continue the program next summer and do more in the Head Starters homes.

Miss Susan Hyland, Head Start teacher at the Child Development Laboratory, and Sanford Nelson, principal at Elliott Elementary, also addressed the Group Work members.

NEW MEMBERS

honored at get-acquainted tea

Tea was served to the members of the Lancaster County Medical Auxiliary and to their 7 new members Monday afternoon.

The occasion was the auxiliaries annual get-acquainted tea which was held this year at the home of Mrs. Louis Gogela.

Pictured above from the left are Mrs. Harold C. Halvorsen, Mrs. Russell Brauer, Mrs. Bernard Wendt, Mrs. John Clyne, Mrs. Lee Van Voorhis and Mrs. Jon Williams. Two of the new members, Mrs. Halvorsen and Mrs. Van Voorhis are pictured, but as we mentioned before, there were seven new members and the remaining five are Mrs. Robert L. Haag, Mrs. William Hohn, Mrs. Richard Olney, Mrs. John T. McGreer and Mrs. Charles Newell.

NEWS

of the suburban areas

Guests continue to come and go in the suburban areas and the residents of these pretty little sections surrounding the city are quite busy.

But his morning there is, in addition to guests, news of birthday get-togethers. To hear of cake, candles and ice cream, let's head for Kimberly Heights.

KIMBERLY HEIGHTS

Here we are in Kimberly Heights and now to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Multer.

Last Friday evening, Mr. Multer celebrated his anniversary when friends arrived for an evening of socializing and for a taste of Mr. Multer's birthday cake. Then came Saturday and a trip to the home of Mr. and Mrs. James McClure and son, Pat, where Mr. and Mrs. McClure treated Mr. and Mrs. Multer to a spaghetti dinner in honor of Mr. Multer's birthday.

But, we also hear that last weekend was not the only weekend for anniversary observances at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Multer. It seems that the previous weekend guests arrived, one of whom came with a birthday cake—and she was Mrs. Multer's mother, Mrs. D. G. Pueppke. Mr. and Mrs. Pueppke made the drive from Neligh to Lincoln on Sunday and then continued their visit until the following Sunday.

Expecting guests this evening are Mr. and Mrs. John Kircher. When this evening rolls around, it will be Mrs. Kircher's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Stoffer of Denver, Colo. who will be arriving for an overnight Lincoln visit.

On Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Stoffer will head for Fremont and for the home of Mrs. Stoffer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Stender. The couple will spend a week in Fremont before returning to their Denver home.

KESSLER HEIGHTS

Monday was the day when Mr. and Mrs. Marion Clark entertained for their guest who was Mrs. Floyd Parker. Mrs. Parker spent the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clark while Mr. Parker attended a convention at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

Bridal Party Named.

Revealing plans this morning for an October wedding is Miss Sharon Hetherington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Hetherington, who will become the bride of John William Chappell, II, of El Centro, Calif., on Saturday, Oct. 16.

The ceremony will be solemnized at 2 o'clock, at Vine Congregational Church.

For her matron of honor and only attendant, Miss Hetherington has chosen Mrs. Steve Conner.

Mr. Conner will serve as best man, and seating the guests will be the bride-elect's brother, Harold D. Hetherington, Jr., and Bob Sherrie. Kevin Hetherington, also a brother of the bride-to-be, will light the chancel candles.

Miss Hetherington's fiance, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Chappell of El Centro, attended Imperial Valley, Calif., Junior College. He is stationed at the Davey Missile Base.

THE TALK

around the town

We'll begin by extending a belated 'happy birthday' greeting to William I. Aitken who celebrated his anniversary on Monday, Oct. 4. We might add that it was an exciting day for Mr. Aitken since a brand new grandson, Richard Aitkem Senger, made his world debut on—Monday, Oct. 4, of course.

The young man is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Harry L. Senger of Wellesley Hills, Mass., and his mother is the former Nancy Aitken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Aitken.

Speaking of birthdays—and we are — there is one coming up on Saturday, Oct. 9. The anniversary belongs to Mrs. Sam Van Pelt who is to be the honoree at a party for which Mr. Van Pelt will be host.

Now that we have mentioned a post-game party we'll pass on some news about a pre-game luncheon for which Dr. and Mrs. Tom Ludwick will be host and hostess at the Lincoln Country Club.

Out of town guests at the party will be Mr. and Mrs. Harold Andersen, Mrs. Fannie Shaw Jones, all of Omaha; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Jenkins of Fremont; Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Brown, Dr. and Mrs. William Houfek, all of Genoa; Dr. and Mrs. Arden Means of Holdrege; Dr. and Mrs. Joe Sanchz of Nebraska City, and Dr. and Mrs. John Saberg of Fullerton.

There are some interesting names in Lincoln's guest book this week—On the current list is Mrs. James Good of Winnetka, Ill., who has been spending the past few days as the house guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Earle Foster, and also has been visiting her sister, Mrs. George Haecker.

On Thursday morning Mrs. Good and Mrs. Haecker will be leaving for the Chicago area—Mrs. Good to return to her home, and Mrs. Haecker to visit her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Woods Haecker in Northbrook.

Our potential guest is Miss Cynthia Morgan who arrives on Friday from Seattle, Wash., and who will be the guest of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Morgan. After a few days in Lincoln Miss Morgan will go to Ann Arbor, Mich., for a brief visit, but will return to Lincoln before taking off again for Seattle.

Miss Morgan, as you may already know, is working with the research staff at University Hospital, University of Washington.

We might just as well stretch the future a bit—and make it reach to Oct. 23—and the Homecoming game.

We're doing this because we hear that Dr. and Mrs. Donald Othmer of Brooklyn, N.Y., will be in town for the Homecoming weekend and will be the house guests of Dr. Othmer's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. C. Bertrand Schultz. Dr. Othmer, by the way, is professor of chemical engineering at Brooklyn College.

Back to the present—specifically this mid-week. We have in mind Wednesday evening and the annual business meeting of the Cotillion Club. The members will dine at the University Club, and on the agenda for the evening is the election of new members.

BRIDES BOOK

News of October brides-elect includes Miss Bonnie Bloom of Omaha, former coed at the University of Nebraska, who has chosen Saturday, Oct. 9, as the date for her marriage to Robert Sorenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sorenson of Omaha.

The soon-to-be bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Bloom of Ashland, has chosen as her maid of honor, Miss Alice Dreismeier of Omaha. Her bridesmaid will be Miss Marlys Blaudine of Omaha. Bridesmatrons for the Oct. 9 ceremony are Mrs. Lowell Blakely of Broken Bow and Mrs. Clyde Karschner of Omaha.

Miss Bloom's bridal courtesies include a party given by Mrs. Henry Hollings, Mrs. Gail Pollard, and Mrs. Chilton Bryant. The linen shower was held on Sunday, Sept. 19, in the home of Mrs. Hollings in Ashland. On Sunday, Sept. 26, Miss Bloom was guest of honor at a miscellaneous affair given by Mrs. Tim Bates also of Ashland.

The Oct. 9 ceremony will take place in St. Richards Church at 4320 Fort St. in Omaha at 12:00 o'clock noon.

Here is the story of these furs: Furriers from time to time get "stuck" with furs unclaimed from storage. Pachman Furs has a large group of furs consigned by a large furrier which will go at fantastic prices in the Lincoln area. Also many one-of-a-kind furs from regular stock will go at very low prices. Imagine buying a nearly new fur stole for only $15.00 and up and fur collars from $5.00 to $10.00 & up. Many of these furs are expensive furs and are being sold at ridiculous prices. These furs really look NEW but must be labelel "second-hand used." If you want to buy a "good" $15.00 and up bargain in a fur you'd better come early. Fur Coats, Jackets, Scarfs and Stoles will go at low, low prices. A deposit will hold your layaway. Furs on sale for limited time, open from 9 to 5:30. NEW MEMBERS

honored at get-acquainted tea

Tea was served to the members of the Lancaster County Medical Auxiliary and to their 7 new members Monday afternoon.

The occasion was the auxiliaries annual get-acquainted tea which was held this year at the home of Mrs. Louis Gogela.

Pictured above from the left are Mrs. Harold C. Halvorsen, Mrs. Russell Brauer, Mrs. Bernard Wendt, Mrs. John Clyne, Mrs. Lee Van Voorhis and Mrs. Jon Williams. Two of the new members, Mrs. Halvorsen and Mrs. Van Voorhis are pictured, but as we mentioned before, there were seven new members and the remaining five are Mrs. Robert L. Haag, Mrs. William Hohn, Mrs. Richard Olney, Mrs. John T. McGreer and Mrs. Charles Newell.

of the suburban areas

Guests continue to come and go in the suburban areas and the residents of these pretty little sections surrounding the city are quite busy.

But his morning there is, in addition to guests, news of birthday get-togethers. To hear of cake, candles and ice cream, let's head for Kimberly Heights.

KIMBERLY HEIGHTS

Here we are in Kimberly Heights and now to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Multer.

Last Friday evening, Mr. Multer celebrated his anniversary when friends arrived for an evening of socializing and for a taste of Mr. Multer's birthday cake. Then came Saturday and a trip to the home of Mr. and Mrs. James McClure and son, Pat, where Mr. and Mrs. McClure treated Mr. and Mrs. Multer to a spaghetti dinner in honor of Mr. Multer's birthday.

But, we also hear that last weekend was not the only weekend for anniversary observances at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Multer. It seems that the previous weekend guests arrived, one of whom came with a birthday cake—and she was Mrs. Multer's mother, Mrs. D. G. Pueppke. Mr. and Mrs. Pueppke made the drive from Neligh to Lincoln on Sunday and then continued their visit until the following Sunday.

Expecting guests this evening are Mr. and Mrs. John Kircher. When this evening rolls around, it will be Mrs. Kircher's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Stoffer of Denver, Colo. who will be arriving for an overnight Lincoln visit.

On Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Stoffer will head for Fremont and for the home of Mrs. Stoffer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Stender. The couple will spend a week in Fremont before returning to their Denver home.

KESSLER HEIGHTS

Monday was the day when Mr. and Mrs. Marion Clark entertained for their guest who was Mrs. Floyd Parker. Mrs. Parker spent the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clark while Mr. Parker attended a convention at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

THE TALK

around the town

We'll begin by extending a belated 'happy birthday' greeting to William I. Aitken who celebrated his anniversary on Monday, Oct. 4. We might add that it was an exciting day for Mr. Aitken since a brand new grandson, Richard Aitkem Senger, made his world debut on—Monday, Oct. 4, of course.

The young man is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Harry L. Senger of Wellesley Hills, Mass., and his mother is the former Nancy Aitken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Aitken.

Speaking of birthdays—and we are — there is one coming up on Saturday, Oct. 9. The anniversary belongs to Mrs. Sam Van Pelt who is to be the honoree at a party for which Mr. Van Pelt will be host.

Now that we have mentioned a post-game party we'll pass on some news about a pre-game luncheon for which Dr. and Mrs. Tom Ludwick will be host and hostess at the Lincoln Country Club.

Out of town guests at the party will be Mr. and Mrs. Harold Andersen, Mrs. Fannie Shaw Jones, all of Omaha; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Jenkins of Fremont; Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Brown, Dr. and Mrs. William Houfek, all of Genoa; Dr. and Mrs. Arden Means of Holdrege; Dr. and Mrs. Joe Sanchz of Nebraska City, and Dr. and Mrs. John Saberg of Fullerton.

There are some interesting names in Lincoln's guest book this week—On the current list is Mrs. James Good of Winnetka, Ill., who has been spending the past few days as the house guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Earle Foster, and also has been visiting her sister, Mrs. George Haecker.

On Thursday morning Mrs. Good and Mrs. Haecker will be leaving for the Chicago area—Mrs. Good to return to her home, and Mrs. Haecker to visit her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Woods Haecker in Northbrook.

Our potential guest is Miss Cynthia Morgan who arrives on Friday from Seattle, Wash., and who will be the guest of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Morgan. After a few days in Lincoln Miss Morgan will go to Ann Arbor, Mich., for a brief visit, but will return to Lincoln before taking off again for Seattle.

Miss Morgan, as you may already know, is working with the research staff at University Hospital, University of Washington.

We might just as well stretch the future a bit—and make it reach to Oct. 23—and the Homecoming game.

We're doing this because we hear that Dr. and Mrs. Donald Othmer of Brooklyn, N.Y., will be in town for the Homecoming weekend and will be the house guests of Dr. Othmer's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. C. Bertrand Schultz. Dr. Othmer, by the way, is professor of chemical engineering at Brooklyn College.

Back to the present—specifically this mid-week. We have in mind Wednesday evening and the annual business meeting of the Cotillion Club. The members will dine at the University Club, and on the agenda for the evening is the election of new members.

BRIDES BOOK

News of October brides-elect includes Miss Bonnie Bloom of Omaha, former coed at the University of Nebraska, who has chosen Saturday, Oct. 9, as the date for her marriage to Robert Sorenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sorenson of Omaha.

The soon-to-be bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Bloom of Ashland, has chosen as her maid of honor, Miss Alice Dreismeier of Omaha. Her bridesmaid will be Miss Marlys Blaudine of Omaha. Bridesmatrons for the Oct. 9 ceremony are Mrs. Lowell Blakely of Broken Bow and Mrs. Clyde Karschner of Omaha.

Miss Bloom's bridal courtesies include a party given by Mrs. Henry Hollings, Mrs. Gail Pollard, and Mrs. Chilton Bryant. The linen shower was held on Sunday, Sept. 19, in the home of Mrs. Hollings in Ashland. On Sunday, Sept. 26, Miss Bloom was guest of honor at a miscellaneous affair given by Mrs. Tim Bates also of Ashland.

The Oct. 9 ceremony will take place in St. Richards Church at 4320 Fort St. in Omaha at 12:00 o'clock noon.

October bride-elect, Miss Jean Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Stewart of Ashland, has been recently honored by the Ashland Saddle Club with a miscellaneous shower. Other bridal courtesies include an afternoon shower given in the home of Mrs. Raymond Hopper of Ashland on Sept. 18.

The evening of Sept. 18 brought more shower news. Friends of the groom-elect, Larry Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith of Ashland, honored Miss Stewart with a one gift shower given in the home of Mrs. Gail Pollard of Ashland.

Duane Smith of Nebraska City will serve as best man, and the groomsmen are Raymond Buell of Papillion and Steven Pilcher of Ashland. Ushers are Jerry Hodgin, Ray Hammer, Herk Parks, and Rolland Beetison of Ashland.

Bridal Party Named.

Revealing plans this morning for an October wedding is Miss Sharon Hetherington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Hetherington, who will become the bride of John William Chappell, II, of El Centro, Calif., on Saturday, Oct. 16.

The ceremony will be solemnized at 2 o'clock, at Vine Congregational Church.

For her matron of honor and only attendant, Miss Hetherington has chosen Mrs. Steve Conner.

Mr. Conner will serve as best man, and seating the guests will be the bride-elect's brother, Harold D. Hetherington, Jr., and Bob Sherrie. Kevin Hetherington, also a brother of the bride-to-be, will light the chancel candles.

Miss Hetherington's fiance, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Chappell of El Centro, attended Imperial Valley, Calif., Junior College. He is stationed at the Davey Missile Base.

Robert Hopp of Bennet is six feet tall, he weighs 175 pounds, he has blonde hair, and he's 19 years old. These aren't particularly spectacular characteristics there doubtless are thousands of young men who are six feet tall, weigh 175 pounds and are 19 years old.

But Robert Hopp is different. He has something that separates him from—well, from the rest of his 511 freshmen classmates, for instance, he has been preaching in Nebraska churches for one year.

In September of last year, Robert attended the Billy Graham Crusade in Omaha. His desire to enter the ministry is partially attributed to this event. The Rev. William Davis of the Bennet Community Church also has been an influential factor in Robert's decision.

While the Davis family vacationed the month of August, Robert was in charge of the 8:30 o'clock services at the Bennet church. The future minister also preached at the 11:00 o'clock service in Louisville this summer, and he will continue to do so this fall.

A spring graduate of Bennet High School, Robert lettered in football, basketball, and track. Another of his high school activities was the band, where he played the saxophone.

Robert plans to attend seminary after graduation from Wesleyan University, where he now is a freshman. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hopp, and there is one other member of the family—his brother, Ronald, who lives in Lincoln.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Melvin and I have been married for three years and this is the first time we have ever had a really violent argument. Well, Melvin loves to shoot, so last year he went deer hunting with three other guys. They drove 600 miles and were gone a week. I stayed home with the baby. This year Melvin says he wants to go again. I told him if he went, I would take a vacation with a girl friend of mine who is single. He didn't like that, so now he's sulking like a little boy. Is this fair? If he wants to hunt deer he can hunt 30 miles from here and get home the same night. And besides, neither Melvin nor I like venison, so what's the point?

MELVIN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: No man ever went deer hunting because he liked venison. It's the change of routine and the fun of being with the "other guys" he enjoys. What's good for the deer isn't always good for the doe. So for my dough, let him go hunting. P.S. And I'd never argue with a man who loves to shoot.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young mother with two children, ages 3 and 4. They repeat everything they hear, whether they understand what it means or not. We live in a respectable neighborhood except for this one couple who fight a lot and use very vulgar language. Our children play outside and can hear this couple shouting at each other. Some of the words they use are just terrible, Abby. My husband spent three years in the Navy, and it takes a lot to shock him, but when the three-year-old asked him what a certain gutter word meant this morning, he almost fainted. How do we answer these questions?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: For every vulgar word, there is a more refined way of expressing it. Don't get flustered, and don't put off the explanation. Answer the children in the most nonchalant and truthful way you know how. (It doesn't matter whether they understand or not.) P.S. And you might tell this couple to pipe down because your children are getting postgraduate courses in "life" before entering kindergarten.

DEAR ABBY: Apropos the use of the title "Doctor" for those who have earned a doctor's degree in fields other than medicine: I have an "R.P.D." — Doctor of Political Science and, to be perfectly candid, I enjoy being addressed as "Doctor." It sets me just a bit above the crowd and having earned this distinction, feel I am entitled to it. He who assumes that everyone with a doctor's title is a physician is an ignoramus. If I am mistaken for a medical doctor, which happens frequently, it's all right with me.

CALL ME DOCTOR

DEAR DOCTOR: It's all right with me, too, Doctor. But if you happen to be in a crowded restaurant and someone yells, "Is there a doctor in the house," you'd better head for the nearest exit.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BEST MAN" in FORT WORTH: Don't give the bride away or there might not be a wedding.

The bidding:

1 ♦	3 ♠	4 ♥	4 ♠
5 ♥	Dble

Opening lead — seven of clubs.

When an unusual bid occurs at the table, whether the bid is made by the opponents or your partner, you are supposed to try to figure out what that bid means.

Some bids are so startling that you know very well they don't mean what they say. The problem which arises (of figuring out what the bid means) is not always easy to solve.

Let's say you have the West hand and your partner doubles five hearts on the sequence shown. It makes no sense to assume thtat East suddenly found a couple of aces in his hand which he overlooked when he made the preemptive overcall of three spades.

After all, it is almost universal to play a three spade bid in this sequence as showing a weak hand with lots of spades. Usually the overcall denotes an absence of defensive tricks, though it is of course possible to have one.

Hence, the double of five hearts cannot reasonably indicate the high-card strength necessary to take three defensive tricks. The double is bound to be conventional, that is, it must be based on a hand containing a void with the prospect of a right opening lead beating the contract.

A spade lead being barred, you have to choose between a club or a diamond. The choice is not 100% clear and either lead might turn out right or wrong in a given hand, but the odds heavily favor a club lead. This conclusion can be reached on the simple basis that the opponents are more likely to have seven clubs between them than eleven diamonds.

If you lead a club, the contract goes down one or two, depending on whether declarer elects to finesse. Assuming he does, your partner ruffs, returns a spade, and you give him another ruff to defeat the contract one trick. If declarer does not finesse the opening lead, which is certainly possible, he goes down two.

MELVIN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: No man ever went deer hunting because he liked venison. It's the change of routine and the fun of being with the "other guys" he enjoys. What's good for the deer isn't always good for the doe. So for my dough, let him go hunting. P.S. And I'd never argue with a man who loves to shoot.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young mother with two children, ages 3 and 4. They repeat everything they hear, whether they understand what it means or not. We live in a respectable neighborhood except for this one couple who fight a lot and use very vulgar language. Our children play outside and can hear this couple shouting at each other. Some of the words they use are just terrible, Abby. My husband spent three years in the Navy, and it takes a lot to shock him, but when the three-year-old asked him what a certain gutter word meant this morning, he almost fainted. How do we answer these questions?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: For every vulgar word, there is a more refined way of expressing it. Don't get flustered, and don't put off the explanation. Answer the children in the most nonchalant and truthful way you know how. (It doesn't matter whether they understand or not.) P.S. And you might tell this couple to pipe down because your children are getting postgraduate courses in "life" before entering kindergarten.

DEAR ABBY: Apropos the use of the title "Doctor" for those who have earned a doctor's degree in fields other than medicine: I have an "R.P.D." — Doctor of Political Science and, to be perfect ly candid, I enjoy being addressed as "Doctor." It sets me just a bit above the crowd and having earned this distinction, feel I am entitled to it. He who assumes that everyone with a doctor's title is a physician is an ignoramus. If I am mistaken for a medical doctor, which happens frequently, it's all right with me.

CALL ME DOCTOR

DEAR DOCTOR: It's all right with me, too, Doctor. But if you happen to be in a crowded restaurant and someone yells, "Is there a doctor in the house," you'd better head for the nearest exit.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BEST MAN" in FORT WORTH: Don't give the bride away or there might not be a wedding.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	3 ♠	4 ♥	4 ♠
5 ♥	Dble

Opening lead — seven of clubs.

When an unusual bid occurs at the table, whether the bid is made by the opponents or your partner, you are supposed to try to figure out what that bid means.

Some bids are so startling that you know very well they don't mean what they say. The problem which arises (of figuring out what the bid means) is not always easy to solve.

Let's say you have the West hand and your partner doubles five hearts on the sequence shown. It makes no sense to assume thtat East suddenly found a couple of aces in his hand which he overlooked when he made the preemptive overcall of three spades.

After all, it is almost universal to play a three spade bid in this sequence as showing a weak hand with lots of spades. Usually the overcall denotes an absence of defensive tricks, though it is of course possible to have one.

Hence, the double of five hearts cannot reasonably indicate the high-card strength necessary to take three defensive tricks. The double is bound to be conventional, that is, it must be based on a hand containing a void with the prospect of a right opening lead beating the contract.

A spade lead being barred, you have to choose between a club or a diamond. The choice is not 100% clear and either lead might turn out right or wrong in a given hand, but the odds heavily favor a club lead. This conclusion can be reached on the simple basis that the opponents are more likely to have seven clubs between them than eleven diamonds.

If you lead a club, the contract goes down one or two, depending on whether declarer elects to finesse. Assuming he does, your partner ruffs, returns a spade, and you give him another ruff to defeat the contract one trick. If declarer does not finesse the opening lead, which is certainly possible, he goes down two.

Dinner

Members of the Fifty-Fifty Club have a get-together planned for this evening at 6:45 o'clock.

At that time the club members will gather at the University Club. Dinner is to be the first item on the evening's agenda with bridge following the scheduled dinner.

Black Shirts Not Tainted

If you, as a salesman, had just come in from making three or four big sales, then found other people in your office criticizing you because your performance was beginning to slip, you know how Nebraska's defensive Black Shirts felt going into the Iowa State game Saturday.

The Black Shirts had been stung by criticism because they had allowed Texas Christian to score 14 points and the Air Force to score 17.

But most people forget that three of the four touchdowns scored against the Nebraska Black Shirts were set up by offensive mistakes and all three gave the foe the ball in Nebraska territory, twice deep in Nebraska territory.

The only touchdown that can really be charged against the Black Shirts was the first touchdown of the season when TCU drove 78 yards after taking a kickoff.

On the others, TCU was given the ball 12 yards from the Nebraska goal by a pass interception, Air Force recovered a fumble at the Husker 27 and grabbed an onside kick at the Nebraska 46.

But if they were going to be criticized for these "failures", the Black Shirts had only one alternative—don't give up a score from anywhere on the field. And this is just what they did against the Cyclones.

Shift In Pass Blocking

However, as was mentioned previously, the Falcons were unable to move more than 47 yards for a score and then only once.

George Kelly, who handles the tutoring chores for the Black Shirt line, explains the Huskers ran into something they didn't expect in the way of pass blocking from the Air Force which cut down the effectiveness of the Black Shirts.

"They were cut blocking and tying up our linemen's feet," Kelly explains. "Very few teams block this way for a passer, but it worked with Stein being able to scramble so well."

However, even the Minnesota Vikings with the king of scramblers in Fran Tarkenton don't block this way.

"If you do block this way and the tackler gets away from the blocker, then the blocker is on the ground and no longer able to protect the quarterback," Kelly points out. "The pros just don't want to take the chance with their quarterback even if he is a scrambler.

The pros prefer to keep their blockers on their feet. They just set themselves around the passer and belly bump."

Tough Assignment

"Pass defense has gone along with the pros where they go more for pass coverage than pass rush," Kelly notes. "You'll notice in the pros that they generally are rushing four linemen against sometimes as many as seven blockers.

"You just aren't going to get to the quarterback that way unless you blitz with your safety man. The only time you see a pro quarterback thrown down is if his blocking breaks down."

As an illustration, Kelly points to the Notre Dame loss to Purdue a week ago.

"Ara (Notre Dame coach Parseghian) uses a strict pro defense with a four-man line," Kelly observes. "And Notre Dame wasn't able to touch (Bob) Griese (Purdue quarterback) all afternoon."

Nebraska's pass defense, which anticipated a supreme test that never came from Iowa State Saturday, likely will be tested this week when Wisconsin invades. The Badgers have gained nearly 500 yards passing, but less than 200 rushing.

Banjo-Pickin' Husker Coach Strums For Fans

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska football coach Bob Devaney isn't likely to be flooded with offers from the show business world, but Husker fans will now claim he is the best banjo-pickin' coach in the country.

The fun-loving Irishman, who has provided Nebraska football fans with 31 afternoons of fun in football stadiums, propped himself on the back of a chair and with the help of look-alike Woo Woo Stevens, Devaney strummed the banjo for another overflow crowd at Monday noon's Extra Point Club Quarterback Luncheon at the Lincoln Hotel.

Woo Woo, currently appearing at the East Hills Supper Club, was invited to the luncheon at 10 a.m. Monday morning and responded with a couple of improvised numbers saluting Devaney and the second-ranked Cornhuskers.

After his banjo-pickin' debut, Devaney explained a change in strategy his staff had decided on for the Iowa State game.

"In our first two games, we told the boys to start out good, which they did," he explained. "Then we told them to coast a little to keep the fans in the stands.

"For the Iowa State game, we decided to vary the strategy a little. We told them just to probe around the first quarter and not to do any scoring, then when we started scoring later, the fans would think we were in good condition.

"We don't know which way we'll do it this week because we haven't had a chance to discuss it yet."

Turning to last week's article in Newseek which missed his age by 10 years, calling him 60, and compared him more favorably to Wallace Beery than Kirk Douglas.

"I wasn't too bothered when they said I was 60 because some days I feel that old," Devaney joked. "And it didnt bother me when they said I was fat because I am.

"And it wouldn't have bothered me too much when they said I was like Wallace Berry, if he were only alive.

"But I do wish I was making the money they said I was. The only one who believes I make that much is my wife."

Three Doubtful

Devaney said Monday fullback Pete Tatman would probably be moved to Kirkland's halfback spot, leaving Frank Solich at Fullback.

"We would prefer to run Frank more at fullback because we feel he is more effective there than at halfback," Devaney said.

Melton On Wisconsin

Nebraska assistant coach John Melton, who, along with Tom Osborne, scouted Wisconsin in its 16-13 win over Iowa Saturday, came back impressed with the passing attack of the Badgers.

"They are tied for the Big 10 lead and Chuck Burt, their quarterback, has completed 49 of 96 passes for 477 yards," Melton pointed out.

Melton added that Burt's chief pass receivers are Bill Fritz, a 6-1, 225-pound tight end, and Lou Jung, a 6-2, 194-pound split end.

"They also have 10 others who have caught two or more passes," Melton noted.

"They have nine lettermen on their defensive unit and they average 225 pounds," Melton said. "They are so big that when they came out to warm up the first time, Tom and I thought they already had their shoulder pads on."

The Wisconsin defense held Iowa's All-America quarterback candidate Gary Snook to 10 completions in 28 attempts for 95 yards passing. "And Iowa gained only 116 yards rushing," he observed.

Two of their top defenders, according to Melton, are linebackers Bob Richter and Ray Marcin. Richter is 6-0 and 217 pounds while Marcin is 5-10 and 228.

Melton made no mention of Wisconsin's running game which has been slightly less than impotent thus far, gaining less than 200 yards in three games, except to joke, "I scouted their running game and Tom scouted their passing."

Lane Named Top Big Eight Back; Duda Draws Mention

. . . MISSOURI'S ROLAND ALSO IMPRESSIVE

By Associated Press

The Big Eight Back of the Week is Gary Lane, veteran Missouri quarterback who led an impressive victory at Minnesota with his strong running, capable passing and deceptive ball handling.

Lane scored both Missouri touchdowns on runs of 20 and 11 yards and rolled up 112 yards total offense for the Tigers. He is a 6-foot-1, 200-pound senior from East Alton, Ill., who has led the Big Eight in total offense two seasons in a row.

Lane was a narrow choice over teammate Johnny Roland for the Missouri nomination. Coach Murray Warmath of Minnesota said: "I don't know if I ever saw a better defensive back than Roland, and every time we got their offense in trouble, Lane made the play."

On Lane's 20-yarder, he rolled out to the left, reversed his field and got key blocks from Earl Denny and Ray West. Press box observers said he ran about 60 yards on the play.

On the 11-yard TD Lane and fullback Carl Reese completely fooled the Minnesota defense, tackle Francis Peay blocked his man into the fake area and Lane scored standing up.

High in the voting were halfback Danny Lawson of Oklahoma State and defensive back Charles Greer of Colorado. Lawson gained 90 yards in 20 trips against Tulsa, quick kicked for 66 and 61 yards and made key gains all day in OSU's upset victory.

Greer set up the first two Colorado field goals with punt returns of 32 and 17 yards and had five for 103 yards for the game. Greer also graded perfectly on defense, making no errors. Teammate Hale Irwin also was outstanding on defense.

Other nominees were quarterback Fred Duda of Nebraska and a pair of defensive backs, Larry Carwell of Iowa State and Jim Grechus of Kansas State. Kansas and Oklahoma had no nominees.

Duda, who suffered a broken leg against Iowa State a year ago, came off the bench this time in the second period with the game scoreless, hit 8 of 15 passes for 112 yards and two touchdowns and scored one TD.

Cardwell was in on 12 tackles. Grechus also had a hand in 12 tackles, five of them unassisted. Doug Weaver, K-State coach, praised Grechus for his hard hitting and the way he and end Bill Matan "rallied the defense and led the team onto the field under very difficult conditions."

U.S. Ryder Cup Team 2-1 Favorite After Hot Practice

Southport, England (AP)—The United States Ryder Cup team tore the Royal Birkdale course apart in practice Monday and immediately became a 2-1 favorite to retain the trophy which symbolizes world supremacy in pro golf.

Byron Nelson, the nonplaying U.S. captain, summed up the day's first rehearsal for the biannual battle which starts Thursday and runs through Saturday by saying:

"Arnold Palmer and Julius Boros played the first six holes in a best ball that was five-under-par. That will suit me any time. The fellows love the course. We don't have this type of terrain at home and the conditions are excellent."

By conditions, he meant a rain-soaked 7,073-yard par 73 lay-out that can be horrid when dry and windswept.

Laurel Moves Into Class C, Immediately Takes Top Spot

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Northeast Nebraska continues to provide the leaders in the Class B and Class C divisions of the Nebraska Prep Ratings.

A third newcomer, Loup City, cracks the top ten at the No. 8 position. The Red Raiders had their unbeaten string snapped, 6-0, by Class B Grand Island Central Catholic last week.

The arrival of Laurel, West Point and Loup City and the departure of Wisner and Hebron gives the Class C race a new shape.

Grant, Bertrand, Wymore, Wakefield, Waverly and Oakland return from last week's top ten and the fourth new team among the leaders this week is Wauneta, loser only to Grant.

The re-classification of schools has prompted a similar shakeup in Class B.

Gering and Blair, which were Class A teams last year, move into the top ten at the second and fourth positions, respectively.

Gering, a one-touchdown loser to both Alliance and Scottsbluff, benefits from a season-opening 20-7 win over sixth-ranked Valentine.

Blair, working on an 18-game winning streak, faces one of its major hurdles this week as it tangles with an improving Ralston eleven.

Syracuse and Gothenburg are other newcomers to the Class B top ten, claiming the Nos. 9 and 10 spots.

—LOS ANGELES TO START DRYSDALE AGAINST GRANT IN OPENER—

Dodgers Favored Over Twins In World Series

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, forced to pass over Sandy Koufax, have tapped big Don Drysdale to pitch the opening game of the World Series at Metropolitan Stadium Wednesday against fearless Jim Grant of the Minnesota Twins.

Drysdale, a 23-game winner and the right-handed half of the Dodgers' ace pitching twins, got the call because Wednesday is Yom Kippur, the most solemn Jewish holy day. Koufax, who is Jewish, will remain out of action.

Despite that development the Dodgers are 13-10 favorites here to beat the Twins in the Series. In Las Vegas the National League champions were quoted at 2-3.

And it's not likely that Los Angeles Manager Walt Alston will change his mind about his starter even if it should rain Wednesday and the opening game be pushed back a day.

"I don't think I'll switch even if it rains" said Alston. "Drysdale hasn't pitched since Thursday and I would not like to have him lay off too long."

The latest forecast for the game called for clear weather with temperatures in the lower 70s and no rain in sight.

A crowd of about 46,000 is expected for both the Wednesday and Thursday games at Metropolitan Stadium before the teams shift to Los Angeles and resume the best-of-seven series at Dodger Stadium Saturday after one day off for travel.

All games will start at 1 p.m. local time and will be carried on NBC television and radio.

With the Minneapolis-St. Paul area on central standard time, the first two games will start at noon, CST.

With Drysdale named for the key opening game assignment by Alston he will get a chance for three starts if the Series goes the full seven games. Grant was handed the Twins' opening game assignment ahead of recuperating right-hander Camilo Pascual and left-hander Jim Kaat.

And Grant, who only arrived on the Minnesota scene in mid-June of last year in a trade with Cleveland, said he had no apprehensions over his first Series assignment, either about the Dodgers in general or sparkplug shortstop Maury Wills in particular.

"I'm going to pitch a normal game, like I have all year," said the 21-game winner. "I haven't given their ball club that much thought. I do know that their leading hitter is batting about .288, so there isn't much to go over, is there?"

What about Wills, who stole 94 bases during the regular season?

"I don't think there's anything special about Maury," he said. "He's just another player. Why should I be careful with him. He didn't hit .340 and he didn't hit 40 home runs."

"Nevertheless, Wills figures as the key to the Dodgers' based-on-speed attack, and it's more than likely that he will wind up in a duel with his opposite number at shortstop, the Twins' Zoilo Versalles.

Versalles has been a key factor for the Twins, who this year turned on the speed as a complement for their explosive attack. Versalles, who has stolen 26 bases, also has developed into a homer threat with 19.

He is one of six Twins with 16 or more homers. The Dodgers can boast only two players with as many as a dozen.

But the Dodgers have the edge in pitching with Koufax scheduled to follow Drysdale and Claude Osteen, the other member of the Big Three, scheduled to open at Los Angeles Saturday. For Minnesota, meanwhile, it'll be Grant, Kaat and Pascual in that order.

Black Shirts Not Tainted

If you, as a salesman, had just come in from making three or four big sales, then found other people in your office criticizing you because your performance was beginning to slip, you know how Nebraska's defensive Black Shirts felt going into the Iowa State game Saturday.

The Black Shirts had been stung by criticism because they had allowed Texas Christian to score 14 points and the Air Force to score 17.

But most people forget that three of the four touchdowns scored against the Nebraska Black Shirts were set up by offensive mistakes and all three gave the foe the ball in Nebraska territory, twice deep in Nebraska territory.

The only touchdown that can really be charged against the Black Shirts was the first touchdown of the season when TCU drove 78 yards after taking a kickoff.

On the others, TCU was given the ball 12 yards from the Nebraska goal by a pass interception, Air Force recovered a fumble at the Husker 27 and grabbed an onside kick at the Nebraska 46.

But if they were going to be criticized for these "failures", the Black Shirts had only one alternative—don't give up a score from anywhere on the field. And this is just what they did against the Cyclones.

Shift In Pass Blocking

However, as was mentioned previously, the Falcons were unable to move more than 47 yards for a score and then only once.

George Kelly, who handles the tutoring chores for the Black Shirt line, explains the Huskers ran into something they didn't expect in the way of pass blocking from the Air Force which cut down the effectiveness of the Black Shirts.

"They were cut blocking and tying up our linemen's feet," Kelly explains. "Very few teams block this way for a passer, but it worked with Stein being able to scramble so well."

Lane Named Top Big Eight Back; Duda Draws Mention

. . . MISSOURI'S ROLAND ALSO IMPRESSIVE

By Associated Press

The Big Eight Back of the Week is Gary Lane, veteran Missouri quarterback who led an impressive victory at Minnesota with his strong running, capable passing and deceptive ball handling.

Lane scored both Missouri touchdowns on runs of 20 and 11 yards and rolled up 112 yards total offense for the Tigers. He is a 6-foot-1, 200-pound senior from East Alton, Ill., who has led the Big Eight in total offense two seasons in a row.

Lane was a narrow choice over teammate Johnny Roland for the Missouri nomination. Coach Murray Warmath of Minnesota said: "I don't know if I ever saw a better defensive back than Roland, and every time we got their offense in trouble, Lane made the play."

On Lane's 20-yarder, he rolled out to the left, reversed his field and got key blocks from Earl Denny and Ray West. Press box observers said he ran about 60 yards on the play.

On the 11-yard TD Lane and fullback Carl Reese completely fooled the Minnesota defense, tackle Francis Peay blocked his man into the fake area and Lane scored standing up.

High in the voting were halfback Danny Lawson of Oklahoma State and defensive back Charles Greer of Colorado. Lawson gained 90 yards in 20 trips against Tulsa, quick kicked for 66 and 61 yards and made key gains all day in OSU's upset victory.

Greer set up the first two Colorado field goals with punt returns of 32 and 17 yards and had five for 103 yards for the game. Greer also graded perfectly on defense, making no errors. Teammate Hale Irwin also was outstanding on defense.

Other nominees were quarterback Fred Duda of Nebraska and a pair of defensive backs, Larry Carwell of Iowa State and Jim Grechus of Kansas State. Kansas and Oklahoma had no nominees.

Duda, who suffered a broken leg against Iowa State a year ago, came off the bench this time in the second period with the game scoreless, hit 8 of 15 passes for 112 yards and two touchdowns and scored one TD.

Cardwell was in on 12 tackles. Grechus also had a hand in 12 tackles, five of them unassisted. Doug Weaver, K-State coach, praised Grechus for his hard hitting and the way he and end Bill Matan "rallied the defense and led the team onto the field under very difficult conditions."

U.S. Ryder Cup Team 2-1 Favorite After Hot Practice

Southport, England (AP)—The United States Ryder Cup team tore the Royal Birkdale course apart in practice Monday and immediately became a 2-1 favorite to retain the trophy which symbolizes world supremacy in pro golf.

Byron Nelson, the nonplaying U.S. captain, summed up the day's first rehearsal for the biannual battle which starts Thursday and runs through Saturday by saying:

"Arnold Palmer and Julius Boros played the first six holes in a best ball that was five-under-par. That will suit me any time. The fellows love the course. We don't have this type of terrain at home and the conditions are excellent."

By conditions, he meant a rain-soaked 7,073-yard par 73 lay-out that can be horrid when dry and windswept.

First Big Win

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Northeast Nebraska continues to provide the leaders in the Class B and Class C divisions of the Nebraska Prep Ratings.

A third newcomer, Loup City, cracks the top ten at the No. 8 position. The Red Raiders had their unbeaten string snapped, 6-0, by Class B Grand Island Central Catholic last week.

The arrival of Laurel, West Point and Loup City and the departure of Wisner and Hebron gives the Class C race a new shape.

Grant, Bertrand, Wymore, Wakefield, Waverly and Oakland return from last week's top ten and the fourth new team among the leaders this week is Wauneta, loser only to Grant.

The re-classification of schools has prompted a similar shakeup in Class B.

Gering and Blair, which were Class A teams last year, move into the top ten at the second and fourth positions, respectively.

Gering, a one-touchdown loser to both Alliance and Scottsbluff, benefits from a season-opening 20-7 win over sixth-ranked Valentine.

Blair, working on an 18-game winning streak, faces one of its major hurdles this week as it tangles with an improving Ralston eleven.

Syracuse and Gothenburg are other newcomers to the Class B top ten, claiming the Nos. 9 and 10 spots.

—LOS ANGELES TO START DRYSDALE AGAINST GRANT IN OPENER—

Dodgers Favored Over Twins In World Series

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, forced to pass over Sandy Koufax, have tapped big Don Drysdale to pitch the opening game of the World Series at Metropolitan Stadium Wednesday against fearless Jim Grant of the Minnesota Twins.

Drysdale, a 23-game winner and the right-handed half of the Dodgers' ace pitching twins, got the call because Wednesday is Yom Kippur, the most solemn Jewish holy day. Koufax, who is Jewish, will remain out of action.

Despite that development the Dodgers are 13-10 favorites here to beat the Twins in the Series. In Las Vegas the National League champions were quoted at 2-3.

And it's not likely that Los Angeles Manager Walt Alston will change his mind about his starter even if it should rain Wednesday and the opening game be pushed back a day.

"I don't think I'll switch even if it rains" said Alston. "Drysdale hasn't pitched since Thursday and I would not like to have him lay off too long."

The latest forecast for the game called for clear weather with temperatures in the lower 70s and no rain in sight.

A crowd of about 46,000 is expected for both the Wednesday and Thursday games at Metropolitan Stadium before the teams shift to Los Angeles and resume the best-of-seven series at Dodger Stadium Saturday after one day off for travel.

All games will start at 1 p.m. local time and will be carried on NBC television and radio.

With the Minneapolis-St. Paul area on central standard time, the first two games will start at noon, CST.

With Drysdale named for the key opening game assignment by Alston he will get a chance for three starts if the Series goes the full seven games. Grant was handed the Twins' opening game assignment ahead of recuperating right-hander Camilo Pascual and left-hander Jim Kaat.

And Grant, who only arrived on the Minnesota scene in mid-June of last year in a trade with Cleveland, said he had no apprehensions over his first Series assignment, either about the Dodgers in general or sparkplug shortstop Maury Wills in particular.

"I'm going to pitch a normal game, like I have all year," said the 21-game winner. "I haven't given their ball club that much thought. I do know that their leading hitter is batting about .288, so there isn't much to go over, is there?"

What about Wills, who stole 94 bases during the regular season?

"I don't think there's anything special about Maury," he said. "He's just another player. Why should I be careful with him. He didn't hit .340 and he didn't hit 40 home runs."

"Nevertheless, Wills figures as the key to the Dodgers' based-on-speed attack, and it's more than likely that he will wind up in a duel with his opposite number at shortstop, the Twins' Zoilo Versalles.

Versalles has been a key factor for the Twins, who this year turned on the speed as a complement for their explosive attack. Versalles, who has stolen 26 bases, also has developed into a homer threat with 19.

He is one of six Twins with 16 or more homers. The Dodgers can boast only two players with as many as a dozen.

But the Dodgers have the edge in pitching with Koufax scheduled to follow Drysdale and Claude Osteen, the other member of the Big Three, scheduled to open at Los Angeles Saturday. For Minnesota, meanwhile, it'll be Grant, Kaat and Pascual in that order.

Peru Making Use Of Frosh

. . . YEARLING QUARTERBACK LEADING BOBCATS

Peru State coach Erv Pitts has a little philosophy about letting freshmen start. They have to earn it.

Four have worked for the privilege of starting and a couple more saw frequent duty in the Bobcats' 21-0 Nebraska College Conference victory over Chadron Saturday.

"He's going to be a fine quarterback," Pitts says. "We hoped he would be able to come in and fill in. And he has."

Satterfield, just 161 pounds, threw one touchdown pass and set up a couple of scores with 46 and 51-yard passes. Another throw was headed for a touchdown but was dropped.

"We started him against Tarkio in the first game," Pitts says, "and then held him out for the second game (against Lincoln University). But then he played real well against Northwest Missouri last week, so we put him in."

"Actually, I didn't think we played too well," Pitts says. "We couldn't get our offense going. Most of what we did was by passing. Maybe it was just because I underestimated Chadron's defense."

Monbouquette Traded To Detroit For Thomas, Smith

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP)—The Boston Red Sox have traded pitcher Bill Monbouquette to the Detroit Tigers for outfielder George Thomas and infielder George Smith, The Associated Press learned Monday night.

The deal was the first for the Red Sox since Dick O'Connell replaced Mike Higgins as general manager Sept. 16. It also was the first in the majors since the end of the regular season Sunday.

Monbouquette won 10 games and lost 18 for the Red Sox, who finished ninth in the American League. The 29-year-old righthander compiled a 3.69 earned run average in 228 2-3 inning.

Thomas, 27, hit only .213 in 79 games for the Tigers. He hit three homers and drove in 10 runs. Smith, also 27, played much of the year at Syracuse and had five hits in 53 times at bat for the Tigers.

Stadium Proposal May Reach KC Voters Next June

Kansas City, Mo. (AP) — General obligation bonds for Kansas City's proposed domed stadium and sports complex may be put before the voters next June, with or without agreement by owner Charles O. Finley of the Kansas City Athletics

This was announced Monday by Judge Morris Dubiner of the Jackson County Court, head of a steering committee for the project.

Dubiner said Finley has shown little interest and "the people in Oakland are confident the A's will be in their new stadium in 1968."

The judge said he has assurances from baseball owners and officials that Kansas City won't be without a major league team if it builds a new stadium. Pro basketball and hockey also would come, he said.

Koufax Will Start 2nd Game For LA After Brief Fast

Los Angeles (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers' winningest pitcher, Sandy Koufax, will end a 24-hour religious fast this week in time to regain his strength before his first appearance in the World Series, a Dodger spokesman said.

Koufax, a 26-game winner, is scheduled to start the second game of the Series Thursday against the Minnesota Twins.

Dodger Manager Walter Alston tabbed Koufax for the second game because the series opener will be played Wednesday, Oct. 6—a Jewish holiday. Don Drysdale, who won 23, will pitch the opener.

Koufax at sundown Tuesday will begin a fast that will last through Yom Kipper — or Day of Atonement. He will be free to eat at sundown Wednesday.

St. Louis (AP)—St. Louis scored the first two times it got the ball and its alert defense held off Dallas in the final period as the Cardinals dealt the Cowboys their first defeat, 20-13, Monday night in a National Football League game.

The victory was the second in three games for the Cardinals and shoved them into a four-way tie with Dallas, Cleveland and New York in the Eastern Division.

The Cardinals took the opening kickoff and Charley Johnson marched them 75 yards for the first touchdown on a four-yard pitch to Sonny Randall. St. Louis moved 73 yards in their next series, Bill Triplett racing 10 yards around end for the score.

The only Dallas touchdown came with 20 seconds remaining in the half when Mel Renfro intercepted a deflected pass and galloped 90 yards for the score.

Jim Bakken kicked a St. Louis field goal in the third period, but Danny Villanueva' two field goals in the final period closed the gap to 17-13.

Stapleton Says After NU, ISU Will Fear No One

Ames, Iowa (AP)— Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton said Monday, "After playing Nebraska, we have no reason to be fearful of any other team."

The Cyclones took their worst beating since a 52-0 loss to Colorado in 1956 when Nebraska ran up a 44-0 score last Saturday.

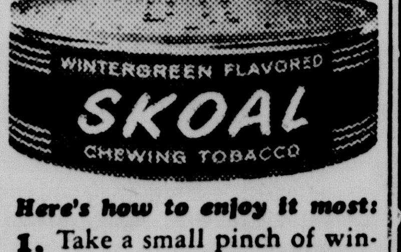
Sure beats smoking!



Here's how to enjoy it most:
1. Take a small pinch of wintergreen flavored Skoal between your thumb and forefinger.
2. Place the Skoal between cheek and upper or lower gum.
3. Tuck it in comfortably with your tongue, and just leave it there. Skoal releases its rich tobacco pleasure slowly, without chewing. Every can is dated for freshness.

Peru Making Use Of Frosh

. . . YEARLING QUARTERBACK LEADING BOBCATS

Peru State coach Erv Pitts has a little philosophy about letting freshmen start. They have to earn it.

Four have worked for the privilege of starting and a couple more saw frequent duty in the Bobcats' 21-0 Nebraska College Conference victory over Chadron Saturday.

The most prominent one of the frosh was Bob Satterfield, a quarterback who has a helmet full of accolades from his prep days in Chicago.

"He's going to be a fine quarterback," Pitts says. "We hoped he would be able to come in and fill in. And he has."

Satterfield, just 161 pounds, threw one touchdown pass and set up a couple of scores with 46 and 51-yard passes. Another throw was headed for a touchdown but was dropped.

"We started him against Tarkio in the first game," Pitts says, "and then held him out for the second game (against Lincoln University). But then he played real well against Northwest Missouri last week, so we put him in."

Pitts got a line on the youngster from a coaching colleague over in Illinois. Pitts talked the lad into joining the Peru fold and marked him right away as a possible starter.

"Actually, I didn't think we played too well," Pitts says. "We couldn't get our offense going. Most of what we did was by passing. Maybe it was just because I underestimated Chadron's defense."

The defense drew praise, however. Pitts explaining that anytime you shut somebody out, the defense must have been good.

Monbouquette Traded To Detroit For Thomas, Smith

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP)—The Boston Red Sox have traded pitcher Bill Monbouquette to the Detroit Tigers for outfielder George Thomas and infielder George Smith. The Associated Press learned Monday night.

The deal was the first for the Red Sox since Dick O'Connell replaced Mike Higgins as general manager Sept. 16. It also was the first in the majors since the end of the regular season Sunday.

Monbouquette won 10 games and lost 18 for the Red Sox, who finished ninth in the American League. The 29-year-old righthander compiled a 3.69 earned run average in 228 2-3 inning.

Thomas, 27, hit only .213 in 79 games for the Tigers. He hit three homers and drove in 10 runs. Smith, also 27, played much of the year at Syracuse and had five hits in 53 times at bat for the Tigers.

Stadium Proposal May Reach KC Voters Next June

Kansas City, Mo. (AP) — General obligation bonds for Kansas City's proposed domed stadium and sports complex may be put before the voters next June, with or without agreement by owner Charles O. Finley of the Kansas City Athletics

This was announced Monday by Judge Morris Dubiner of the Jackson County Court, head of a steering committee for the project.

Dubiner said Finley has shown little interest and "the people in Oakland are confident the A's will be in their new stadium in 1968 "

The judge said he has assurances from baseball owners and officials that Kansas City won't be without a major league team if it builds a new stadium. Pro basketball and hockey also would come, he said.

Sure beats smoking!

Here's how to enjoy it most:
1. Take a small pinch of wintergreen flavored Skoal between your thumb and forefinger.
2. Place the Skoal between cheek and upper or lower gum.
3. Tuck it in comfortably with your tongue, and just leave it there. Skoal releases its rich tobacco pleasure slowly, without chewing. Every can is dated for freshness

Koufax Will Start 2nd Game For LA After Brief Fast

Los Angeles (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers' winningest pitcher, Sandy Koufax, will end a 24-hour religious fast this week in time to regain his strength before his first appearance in the World Series, a Dodger spokesman said.

Koufax, a 26-game winner, is scheduled to start the second game of the Series Thursday against the Minnesota Twins.

Dodger Manager Walter Alston tabbed Koufax for the second game because the series opener will be played Wednesday, Oct. 6—a Jewish holiday. Don Drysdale, who won 23, will pitch the opener.

Koufax at sundown Tuesday will begin a fast that will last through Yom Kipper — or Day of Atonement. He will be free to eat at sundown Wednesday.

St. Louis (AP)—St. Louis scored the first two times it got the ball and its alert defense held off Dallas in the final period as the Cardinals dealt the Cowboys their first defeat, 20-13, Monday night in a National Football League game

The victory was the second in three games for the Cardinals and shoved them into a four-way tie with Dallas, Cleveland and New York in the Eastern Division.

The Cardinals took the opening kickoff and Charley Johnson marched them 75 yards for the first touchdown on a four-yard pitch to Sonny Randall. St. Louis moved 73 yards in their next series, Bill Triplett racing 10 yards around end for the score.

The only Dallas touchdown came with 20 seconds remaining in the half when Mel Renfro intercepted a deflected pass and galloped 90 yards for the score.

Jim Bakken kicked a St. Louis field goal in the third period, but Danny Villanueva' two field goals in the final period closed the gap to 17-13.

Nebraskan Enters Large Paddlefish In Iowa Records

Des Moines, Iowa (UPI)—the only entry submitted this year in the paddlefish division of the Iowa fishing records came from a Blair, Neb., man, the Iowa Conservation Commission said Monday.

H. W. Lanouette submitted a paddlefish measuring 42 inches and weighing 34½ pounds. He caught it while fishing for catfish at De Soto Bend in Harrison County.

The all-time record in Iowa was a 60-pound paddlefish, caught in the Mississippi River at Allamakee County last year.

Hunter's Clock

Sisler Fired By Reds

Cincinnati, Ohio (AP)—Dick Sisler was fired Monday as manager of the Cincinnati Reds, apparently because of the club's failure to win the National League pennant. No successor was named.

It was Sisler's first year as a major league manager.

The Reds, who were pennant contenders a week before the season ended, finished in fourth place, eight games behind the champion Los Angeles Dodgers.

William O. DeWitt, Reds president, announced Sisler's dismissal, and said, "I feel it is necessary that he be relieved as manager of the Reds."

Sisler, reached after the announcement, said, "This has been a blow to me. I'm very, very bitterly disappointed for being let out as manager of the Reds."

Nebraskan Enters Large Paddlefish In Iowa Records

Des Moines, Iowa (UPI)—the only entry submitted this year in the paddlefish division of the Iowa fishing records came from a Blair, Neb., man, the Iowa Conservation Commission said Monday.

H. W. Lanouette submitted a paddlefish measuring 42 inches and weighing 34½ pounds. He caught it while fishing for catfish at De Soto Bend in Harrison County.

The all-time record in Iowa was a 60-pound paddlefish, caught in the Mississippi River at Allamakee County last year.

Hunter's Clock

Sisler Fired By Reds

Cincinnati, Ohio (AP)—Dick Sisler was fired Monday as manager of the Cincinnati Reds, apparently because of the club's failure to win the National League pennant. No successor was named.

It was Sisler's first year as a major league manager.

The Reds, who were pennant contenders a week before the season ended, finished in fourth place, eight games behind the champion Los Angeles Dodgers.

William O. DeWitt, Reds president, announced Sisler's dismissal, and said, "I feel it is necessary that he be relieved as manager of the Reds."

Sisler, reached after the announcement, said, "This has been a blow to me. I'm very, very bitterly disappointed for being let out as manager of the Reds."

Stock Market Gain Small; Trading Slow

New York (AP) — The stock market made a small gain Monday, breaking a string of four straight daily declines. Trading was the slowest in more than a month.

The market was mixed most of the session although it showed a slightly higher tone on balance from hour to hour. Some prices improved in the final hour, making the advance a definite one, although it was still far from unanimous.

Of 1,338 issues traded, 673 rose and 454 fell. New highs for the year totaled 47 and neew lows 22.

Airlines and motors were higher all day, the motors showing their best group action in some time. Steels came up very late in the day, posting gains of fractions to a point or so mostly.

SCM Corp. was the most-active stock, rising 3⅞ to 45 on 186,600 shares.

Eleven of the 15 most active stocks advanced and 4 declined.

Brokers said that Pope Paul's visit to New York may have made some effect in taking away attention from the stock market, accounting for the decline in volume, but the recent action of the market itself was of such a nature as to prompt greater caution at this time, they added.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 1.97 million shares compared with 2.31 million Friday.

Corporation bonds were mixed. U.S. Treasury bonds were higher.

Walpole Inmate Beaten

Walpole, Mass. (AP) — A 21-year-old prisoner was found beaten to death in his cell at the Walpole State Prison, officials announced.

He was identified as Howard R. Greene of Newton, who was serving a 4-to-9-year term for manslaughter and assault and battery.

A prison spokesman said Greene was killed in a 13-minute period during which prisoners were going to dinner.

He was alone in the unlocked cell from 4:52 p.m., when the door was opened for dinner, until 5:05 p.m. when his body was found.

A spokesman said Greene was found with a blanket partially covering his face and head, with his legs twisted, both eyes swollen shut and bleeding from his head.

He was taken to the prison hospital, about a mile away, and was pronounced dead at 6:10 p.m.

Dr. Howard Shenker, Norfolk County medical examiner, said Greene died of multiple blows to the head resulting in a skull fracture.

Evening activities at the prison were suspended as investigators, headed by Norfolk County Dist. Atty. Myron Lane, questioned inmates.

The prison spokesman said Greene was last seen alive at 4:30 p.m. a guard was sent to his cell when he was missed at supper.

Seneca Indian Women Seeking Right To Office

Salamanca, N.Y. (AP) — Women of the Seneca Indian nation, who only a year ago won the right to vote in tribal elections, have petitioned their leaders for the right to hold office.

Their petition, with 157 signatures, was tabled by council leaders at a regular meeting here. They assured the women the matter would be placed before Indian nation voters on the Allegany and Cattaraugus reservations before November 1966.

Recreation Spots Pull Big Crowds

Washington (AP)—Recreation areas on newly created Reclamation Bureau reservoirs in the West attracted nearly 70% more visitors during the 1964 season than in 1963, the Interior Department reported Sunday.

When statistics are compiled for the 1965 season they are expected to show another large gain, Secretary Stewart L. Udall said.

Nearly 2.4 million visitors fished, boated, swam, camped, picnicked, or just enjoyed the scenery and air last year at eight manmade lakes that have been established since 1960, the bureau reported. In 1963 the visits to about 1.4 million.

32 Million Visitors

Visits to the 202 older recreation spots on reclamation areas throughout the 17 Western states totaled about 32 million last year. In all, the bureau provides nearly 1.4 million acres of water surface and about 10,000 miles of shoreline for outdoor recreation.

Udall said that one of the youngest reservoirs rapidly is becoming one of the most popular recreation areas in the west—Lake Powell, behind Glen Canyon Dam, on the Colorado River in northern Arizona. The lake drew 688,000 visit last year, compared with 443,000 in 1963.

Two other reservoirs of the Colorado River storage project also are proving major magnets for the tourist trade. Flaming Gorge, on the Green River in Utah, had 571,000 visits in 1964, up from 410,000 the year before. Navajo, on the San Juan River in New Mexico, tallied 197,000, up from 132,000.

Six Times As Many

The largest increase in recreation use at a reclamation reservoir occurred at Whiskeytown, on Clear Creek in Northern California, the bureau said. In 1963 there were 63,000 visits and last year there were more than six times that many, 390,000.

Twin Buttes Reservoir on the Concho River in Texas had 8,500 visits in 1963 and 26,700 last year.

In Montana, where Yellowtail Dam is under construction, few penetrated the rough country above the dam in 1963 but with completion of some access roads about 17,400 made their way last year to the area where the reservoir will form.

Sailor Married In Storage Room

Why in a storage room? Because that's where the minister was.

Tommy Lee Little, 21, of Ozark, Mo., called the minister, Robert L. Mashburn, saying he and Helen Louise Wilson just couldn't wait to be married. Little said he had to report back to his unit in San Francisco.

Columbus Rising Again In Chicago

Chicago (AP) — Christopher Columbus will rise again.

A nine-foot bronze statue of the navigator, cast in Rome for Chicago's 1893 Columbian Exposition, has been flat on its back for a number of years in a lumber yard.

But, says Victor Arigo of the Municipal Art League, the figure is the focal point in plans for the new Columbus Plaza being built on Chicago's West Side at Polk and Loomis Streets.

ALL CAN RIDE

Stock Market Gain Small; Trading Slow

New York (AP) — The stock market made a small gain Monday, breaking a string of four straight daily declines. Trading was the slowest in more than a month.

Volume was 5.6 million shares compared with 7.49 million Friday.

The market was mixed most of the session although it showed a slightly higher tone on balance from hour to hour. Some prices improved in the final hour, making the advance a definite one, although it was still far from unanimous.

Of 1,358 issues traded, 673 rose and 454 fell. New highs for the year totaled 47 and new lows 22.

Airlines and motors were higher all day, the motors showing their best group action in some time. Steels came up very late in the day, posting gains of fractions to a point or so mostly.

SCM Corp. was the most-active stock, rising 3⅞ to 45 on 186,600 shares.

Eleven of the 15 most active stocks advanced and 4 declined.

Brokers said that Pope Paul's visit to New York may have made some effect in taking away attention from the stock market, accounting for the decline in volume, but the recent action of the market itself was of such a nature as to prompt greater caution at this time, they added.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 1.97 million shares compared with 2.31 million Friday.

Corporation bonds were mixed. U.S. Treasury bonds were higher.

Walpole Inmate Beaten

Walpole, Mass. (AP) — A 21-year-old prisoner was found beaten to death in his cell at the Walpole State Prison, officials announced.

He was identified as Howard R. Greene of Newton, who was serving a 4-to-9-year term for manslaughter and assault and battery.

A prison spokesman said Greene was killed in a 13-minute period during which prisoners were going to dinner.

He was alone in the unlocked cell from 4:52 p.m., when the door was opened for dinner, until 5:05 p.m. when his body was found.

A spokesman said Greene was found with a blanket partially covering his face and head, with his legs twisted, both eyes swollen shut and bleeding from his head.

He was taken to the prison hospital, about a mile away, and was pronounced dead at 6:10 p.m.

Dr. Howard Shenker, Norfolk County medical examiner, said Greene died of multiple blows to the head resulting in a skull fracture.

Evening activities at the prison were suspended as investigators, headed by Norfolk County Dist. Atty. Myron Lane, questioned inmates.

The prison spokesman said Greene was last seen alive at 4:30 p.m. a guard was sent to his cell when he was missed at supper.

Seneca Indian Women Seeking Right To Office

Salamanca, N.Y. (AP) — Women of the Seneca Indian nation, who only a year ago won the right to vote in tribal elections, have petitioned their leaders for the right to hold office.

Their petition, with 157 signatures, was tabled by council leaders at a regular meeting here. They assured the women the matter would be placed before Indian nation voters on the Allegany and Cattaraugus reservations before November 1966.

Recreation Spots Pull Big Crowds

Washington (AP)—Recreation areas on newly created Reclamation Bureau reservoirs in the West attracted nearly 70% more visitors during the 1964 season than in 1963, the Interior Department reported Sunday.

When statistics are compiled for the 1965 season they are expected to show another large gain, Secretary Stewart L. Udall said.

Nearly 2.4 million visitors fished, boated, swam, camped, picnicked, or just enjoyed the scenery and air last year at eight manmade lakes that have been established since 1960, the bureau reported. In 1963 the visits to about 1.4 million.

32 Million Visitors

Visits to the 202 older recreation spots on reclamation areas throughout the 17 Western states totaled about 32 million last year. In all, the bureau provides nearly 1.4 million acres of water surface and about 10,000 miles of shoreline for outdoor recreation.

Udall said that one of the youngest reservoirs rapidly is becoming one of the most popular recreation areas in the west—Lake Powell, behind Glen Canyon Dam, on the Colorado River in northern Arizona. The lake drew 688,000 visit last year, compared with 443,000 in 1963.

Two other reservoirs of the Colorado River storage project also are proving major magnets for the tourist trade. Flaming Gorge, on the Green River in Utah, had 571,000 visits in 1964, up from 410,000 the year before. Navajo, on the San Juan River in New Mexico, tallied 197,000, up from 132,000.

Six Times As Many

The largest increase in recreation use at a reclamation reservoir occurred at Whiskeytown, on Clear Creek in Northern California, the bureau said. In 1963 there were 63,000 visits and last year there were more than six times that many, 390,000.

Twin Buttes Reservoir on the Concho River in Texas had 8,500 visits in 1963 and 26,700 last year.

In Montana, where Yellowtail Dam is under construction, few penetrated the rough country above the dam in 1963 but with completion of some access roads about 17,400 made their way last year to the area where the reservoir will form.

Sailor Married In Storage Room

Why in a storage room? Because that's where the minister was.

Tommy Lee Little, 21, of Ozark, Mo., called the minister, Robert L. Mashburn, saying he and Helen Louise Wilson just couldn't wait to be married. Little said he had to report back to his unit in San Francisco.

Columbus Rising Again In Chicago

Chicago (AP) — Christopher Columbus will rise again.

A nine-foot bronze statue of the navigator, cast in Rome for Chicago's 1893 Columbian Exposition, has been flat on its back for a number of years in a lumber yard.

But, says Victor Arigo of the Municipal Art League, the figure is the focal point in plans for the new Columbus Plaza being built on Chicago's West Side at Polk and Loomis Streets.

ALL CAN RIDE

San Francisco (UPI) — The American Automobile Association reports it is now possible for every man, woman and child in the United States to ride in a car simultaneously.

Soviet Craft May Try Soft Landing On Moon

Moscow (AP)—The Soviet Union launched an apparently unmanned space station toward the moon Monday and said its course was "close to the prescribed one."

The Russians said all systems aboard the satellite were functioning normally.

No specific mission was announced for the satellite, Luna 7, but it was believed to be the third Soviet attempt this year to make history's first soft landing on the lunar surface.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Luna 7 was launched by a multistage rocket.

The last stage went into orbit and launched an "automatic space station," Tass said, the same procedure used on the earlier moon probes. The term automatic space station normally means an unmanned satellite.

Luna 7 weighed 3,313 pounds, Tass said, or slightly more than Lunas 5 and 6.

Luna 7 was sent aloft eight years to the day after the Russians opened the space age with the launching of their first sputnik.

If all goes well Luna 7 would be expected to land on the moon Thursday night. The Tass announcement said it was launched "toward the moon," an indication its mission was a landing rather than an attempt to circle the moon.

Morrissey Is OKd By Bar For Judgeship

Boston (AP)—The Massachusetts Bar Association reversed itself Monday night and voted to endorse the nomination by President Johnson of Francis X. Morrissey for a federal judgeship.

The association opposed such an appointment in 1961 and 1963, when there were rumors of an impending nomination. The American Bar Association opposes the current nomination.

The Senate Judiciary Committee meets Thursday in Washington to consider the nomination of Morrissey, Boston municipal court judge and a long-time friend of the Kennedy family.

Walter H. McLaughlin, president of the Massachusetts Bar Association, said the association's board of delegates, its ruling body, voted 26-9 to endorse Morrissey for the U.S. District Court in Boston.

McLaughlin said he was authorized to notify the Senate committee that the association finds Morrissey "qualified by training and education and experience, and that he possesses an abundance of all of the other attributes of a good judge, such as dignity, patience, courtesy and good judicial temperament"

McLaughlin said the board of delegates did not consider whether Morrissey was the "best" possible appointee or only whether he was "presently qualified, even though lacking detailed experience.'

Albert E. Jenner, chairman of the American Bar Association's federal judiciary committee, has said in Chicago that, if appointed, Morrissey would go on the bench without any pertinent experience "and, so far as we can tell, with little aptitude."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass, has endorsed Morrissey's appointment, as has the Massachusetts Trial Lawyers Association The Boston Bar Association has opposed it.

LBJ Will Attempt To Ease Bind On Exports To Reds

Warsaw, Poland (AP)—The head of a U.S. trade delegation to Eastern Europe predicted Monday that the Johnson administration will try to ease restrictions on American exports to Communist countries.

Paul E. Pauly also said his seven-member mission will study whether U.S. credit terms should be relaxed.

"It is expected that legislation of some kind directed toward liberalizing East-West trade will be submitted to Congress in the near future," he told newsmen.

Pauly, director of the U.S. Office of Trade Promotion, commented at a news conference on statements by Polish economic writers that America was losing business to other Western countries because of stiff U.S. export controls and credit terms.

One writer said Austria, West Germany, Italy and even Britain, "despite its difficult payments situation," offer easier credit.

"If we find that extension of credit is a matter of real importance in deterring trade, it is very likely that this mission will formulate some recommendations," Pauley told him.

He said Polish officials will be urged to give case-by-case data on how U.S. export licensing and credit policies have kept them from buying.

Polish Interest

James O. Ellison, president of the San Francisco machine tool firm of Harron, Richard and McCone, said U.S. machine tool makers are interested in selling to Poland and also in buying Polish machine tools.

"We have certain shortages which Polish machine tools might very well fulfill," he asserted.

The mission reported a good reception in Romania last week despite ruffled feelings there over the Firestone Rubber Co.'s cancellation of a Romanian order for a synthetic rubber plant. The cancellation came after criticism from anti-Communist groups in the United States.

Mayor Reported Set To Intervene In Strike

New York (UPI) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner was reported ready Monday to intervene in the American Newspaper Guild strike against the New York Times. The strike has resulted in the suspension of publication of six of New York's major newspapers.

Wagner's chief mediator at the deadlocked contract talks Theodore Kheel, said the mayor was prepared to make recommendations, aimed at ending the 19-day strike Tuesday or Wednesday.

Talks between the Times and the guild resumed Monday afternoon, but Kheel left early because "there is very little left to discuss. Anything they say to each other is repetitive unless there is a change of position."

Kheel said all the issues in the dispue—pensions and severance pay, automation, job security and a guild shop—had been clarified and reviewed and made "crystal clear." He said there was little chance for progress unless one side or the other makes concessions.

The mayor's labor troubleshooter said he was leaving a subcommittee of two men from each side to review contract language on points of agreement.

It was contract language that proved to be a stumbling block to agreement between the Mailers Union and the Publishers Association. The mailers and the publishers agreed on a new contract early Monday, and the union expects to receive prompt word of approval of the agreement from the parent International Typographical Union.

The mailers' contract, if approved, will run until Mar. 30, 1967. Neither side divulged details of the settlement.

Aden (AP)—Aden's Trade Union Congress (TUC) announced Monday it will call another general strike in this tense British colony despite weekend rioting and arson.

Congress officials said the date for the strike—to oppose the suspension of the colony's constitution and government by Britain—will be announced at a later date.

The congress also is planning a meeting to discuss the possibility of boycotting British goods and refusing to handle British ships in Aden's bunkering port, the officials said.

It was a general strike called by the congress that led to rioting in the town of Crater Saturday and Sunday and the dispatch of British troops into the volcano-rimmed district to restore order.

A 24-hour curfew in the rubble - and - wreckage-strewn town was lifted at dawn and life returned to normal.

British forces patrolling the Crater area, where the streets were cleaned up by bulldozers and work crews, gradually were reduced during the day.

But armed wardens were posted outside Crater apartment blocks housing British servicemen's families.

Officials said Crater's Indian and Jewish communities appeared to have suffered the most property damage in the weekend rioting. No British families—who had been ordered to stay inside their homes during the troubles—were molested, despite the anti-British sentiment of the demonstrations.

Funeral services are planned Wednesday at 11 a.m.

Rhodesians Try To End British Rule

But as the confrontation shaped up between the governments of Prime Ministers Harold Wilson and Ian Smith there were no signs that Britain intended weakening its central condition.

It is that independence cannot be granted before the 3.8 million African are given an effective voice in the affairs of Rhodesia now run by 250,000 whites.

Smith met, after his arrival Monday, with Commonwealth Relations Secretary Arthur Bottomley to settle program arrangements. While the meeting was on a Rhodesian spokesman announced that Smith considers it essential the talks should bring a final settlement.

British officials stressed that the Wilson government is ready to do all it can with Smith to reach a settlement.

Soviet Craft May Try Soft Landing On Moon

Moscow (AP)—The Soviet Union launched an apparently unmanned space station toward the moon Monday and said its course was "close to the prescribed one."

The Russians said all systems aboard the satellite were functioning normally.

No specific mission was announced for the satellite, Luna 7, but it was believed to be the third Soviet attempt this year to make history's first soft landing on the lunar surface.

Such a landing would put the Russians an estimated six months ahead of the United States in the race to land a man on the moon.

Luna 5, the first Soviet attempt at a soft landing, crashed on the moon May 12. The second, Luna 6, missed the moon June 11.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Luna 7 was launched by a multistage rocket.

The last stage went into orbit and launched an "automatic space station," Tass said, the same procedure used on the earlier moon probes. The term automatic space station normally means an unmanned satellite.

Luna 7 weighed 3,313 pounds, Tass said, or slightly more than Lunas 5 and 6.

Luna 7 was sent aloft eight years to the day after the Russians opened the space age with the launching of their first sputnik.

If all goes well Luna 7 would be expected to land on the moon Thursday night. The Tass announcement said it was launched "toward the moon," an indication its mission was a landing rather than an attempt to circle the moon.

Morrissey Is OKd By Bar For Judgeship

Boston (AP)—The Massachusetts Bar Association reversed itself Monday night and voted to endorse the nomination by President Johnson of Francis X. Morrissey for a federal judgeship.

The association opposed such an appointment in 1961 and 1963, when there were rumors of an impending nomination. The American Bar Association opposes the current nomination.

The Senate Judiciary Committee meets Thursday in Washington to consider the nomination of Morrissey, Boston municipal court judge and a long-time friend of the Kennedy family.

Walter H. McLaughlin, president of the Massachusetts Bar Association, said the association's board of delegates, its ruling body, voted 26-9 to endorse Morrissey for the U.S. District Court in Boston.

McLaughlin said he was authorized to notify the Senate committee that the association finds Morrissey "qualified by training and education and experience, and that he possesses an abundance of all of the other attributes of a good judge, such as dignity, patience, courtesy and good judicial temperament"

McLaughlin said the board of delegates did not consider whether Morrissey was the "best" possible appointee or only whether he was "presently qualified, even though lacking detailed experience.'

Albert E. Jenner, chairman of the American Bar Association's federal judiciary committee, has said in Chicago that, if appointed, Morrissey would go on the bench without any pertinent experience "and, so far as we can tell, with little aptitude."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass, has endorsed Morrissey's appointment, as has the Massachusetts Trial Lawyers Association The Boston Bar Association has opposed it.

LBJ Will Attempt To Ease Bind On Exports To Reds

Warsaw, Poland (AP)—The head of a U.S. trade delegation to Eastern Europe predicted Monday that the Johnson administration will try to ease restrictions on American exports to Communist countries.

Paul E. Pauly also said his seven-member mission will study whether U.S. credit terms should be relaxed.

"It is expected that legislation of some kind directed toward liberalizing East-West trade will be submitted to Congress in the near future," he told newsmen.

Pauly, director of the U.S. Office of Trade Promotion, commented at a news conference on statements by Polish economic writers that America was losing business to other Western countries because of stiff U.S. export controls and credit terms.

One writer said Austria, West Germany, Italy and even Britain, "despite its difficult payments situation," offer easier credit.

"If we find that extension of credit is a matter of real importance in deterring trade, it is very likely that this mission will formulate some recommendations," Pauley told him.

He said Polish officials will be urged to give case-by-case data on how U.S. export licensing and credit policies have kept them from buying.

Polish Interest

James O. Ellison, president of the San Francisco machine tool firm of Harron, Richard and McCone, said U.S. machine tool makers are interested in selling to Poland and also in buying Polish machine tools.

"We have certain shortages which Polish machine tools might very well fulfill," he asserted.

The mission reported a good reception in Romania last week despite ruffled feelings there over the Firestone Rubber Co.'s cancellation of a Romanian order for a synthetic rubber plant. The cancellation came after criticism from anti-Communist groups in the United States.

Mayor Reported Set To Intervene In Strike

New York (UPI) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner was reported ready Monday to intervene in the American Newspaper Guild strike against the New York Times. The strike has resulted in the suspension of publication of six of New York's major newspapers.

Wagner's chief mediator at the deadlocked contract talks Theodore Kheel, said the mayor was prepared to make recommendations, aimed at ending the 19-day strike Tuesday or Wednesday.

Talks between the Times and the guild resumed Monday afternoon, but Kheel left early because "there is very little left to discuss. Anything they say to each other is repetitive unless there is a change of position."

Kheel said all the issues in the dispue—pensions and severance pay, automation, job security and a guild shop—had been clarified and reviewed and made "crystal clear." He said there was little chance for progress unless one side or the other makes concessions.

The mayor's labor troubleshooter said he was leaving a subcommittee of two men from each side to review contract language on points of agreement.

It was contract language that proved to be a stumbling block to agreement between the Mailers Union and the Publishers Association. The mailers and the publishers agreed on a new contract early Monday, and the union expects to receive prompt word of approval of the agreement from the parent International Typographical Union.

The mailers' contract, if approved, will run until Mar. 30, 1967. Neither side divulged details of the settlement.

Mass Aden Strike Threatened Again

Aden (AP)—Aden's Trade Union Congress (TUC) announced Monday it will call another general strike in this tense British colony despite weekend rioting and arson.

Congress officials said the date for the strike—to oppose the suspension of the colony's constitution and government by Britain—will be announced at a later date.

The congress also is planning a meeting to discuss the possibility of boycotting British goods and refusing to handle British ships in Aden's bunkering port, the officials said.

It was a general strike called by the congress that led to rioting in the town of Crater Saturday and Sunday and the dispatch of British troops into the volcano-rimmed district to restore order.

A 24-hour curfew in the rubble - and - wreckage-strewn town was lifted at dawn and life returned to normal.

British forces patrolling the Crater area, where the streets were cleaned up by bulldozers and work crews, gradually were reduced during the day.

But armed wardens were posted outside Crater apartment blocks housing British servicemen's families.

Officials said Crater's Indian and Jewish communities appeared to have suffered the most property damage in the weekend rioting. No British families—who had been ordered to stay inside their homes during the troubles—were molested, despite the anti-British sentiment of the demonstrations.

Rhodesians Try To End British Rule

But as the confrontation shaped up between the governments of Prime Ministers Harold Wilson and Ian Smith there were no signs that Britain intended weakening its central condition.

It is that independence cannot be granted before the 3.8 million African are given an effective voice in the affairs of Rhodesia now run by 250,000 whites.

Smith met, after his arrival Monday, with Commonwealth Relations Secretary Arthur Bottomley to settle program arrangements. While the meeting was on a Rhodesian spokesman announced that Smith considers it essential the talks should bring a final settlement

British officials stressed that the Wilson government is ready to do all it can with Smith to reach a settlement.

Tighter Nursing Home Regulations OKd

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Hospital Advisory Council Monday approved new and tighter regulations for licensure of nursing and care homes for the aged and infirm.

The proposed rules now go to the State Health Board for review, then to the attorney general and governor for final approval.

Verne Pangborn, head of the health department's hospital and medical facilities division, said the health board probably would review the rules at its November meeting, but the rules are not proposed to become effective until July 1, 1966.

70 Attend

About 70 nursing home administrators and health department officials attended the five-hour hearing.

A key section of the new regulations upgrades the qualification of nursing home administrators.

Unless employed as an administrator on or before Dec. 31, 1966, an administrator must have a high school education, two years' experience and satisfactory completion of a university short course on nursing home administration or a college education and one years' experience.

New homes constructed after July 1, 1966, must provide 120 square feet per bed in single rooms compared with the present 90 square feet and 90 square feet in multi-bed rooms compared with 60.

The new rules also place the admission and medical treatment of nursing home residents "squarely on the shoulders of a physician," Pangborn noted.

Physician Responsible

"Prior to admission every resident or his guardian shall arrange for a physician to be responsible for his admitting diagnosis and for his continuous medical supervision," the new rules provide.

Also included is for the notification within 10 days after a registered nurse terminates employment with a nursing home to the health department.

The new rules provide that the health director shall review and reclassify a nursing home if the position of nurse in charge remains vacant for 15 days.

However, "upon a showing of necessity," the director may grant a 15-day extension, but not to exceed two extensions.

Only nursing homes with licensed medical personnel may administer shots, such as insulin, and care homes are limited to oral medications.

To Force Upgrading

The new regulations are expected to force many nursing homes to upgrade their facilities and procedures, or become licensed as personal care or boarding home.

The new regulations were partially prompted by the federal enactment of the Medicare program.

The hearing on the new regulations proceeded smoothly as the nursing home association and health department worked over and discussed a tentative draft of the regulations prior to the hearing.

However, one association member said a list of complaints involving enforcement of existing rules is still being made to the health board.

Rabies Shots Start For One Child

One Lincoln child has begun receiving anti-rabies shots and another will have to begin shortly unless the dogs that bit them can be located, Bernard Patton of the Humane Society said Monday.

Both of the children are four-year-olds. The required series of shots is long, expensive and painful, Patton said, and can be avoided if the dog is healthy.

He said the dog would have to be observed for a period of time, either by the Humane Society or by a veterinarian, and stressed that the animal need not be destroyed if it does not have the disease.

Penny Harrington, daughter of Roland Harrington of 1110 Hartley, began receiving shots Monday for bites on the face received Sept. 29 about 9 a.m. at 11th and Manatt. Patton said the dog was a black, short haired, medium size animal with gray around the mouth and wearing a red harness.

Mark Schroeder, son of Harvey Schroeder of 1001 No. 70th, was bitten on a finger Sept. 27th about 6 p.m. near his home by a black poodle about 14 inches high wearing a dark leather collar. The child's parents believe the dog, which had "a nice poodle clip," lives around 70th and Y.

In both cases, Patton said, door-to-door calls in the neighborhoods involved have failed to turn up the dogs. He urges the owners to contact either the parents of the children or the Humane Society.

Thirty-Five Enter Guilty Plea, Fined After Raid

Thirty-five persons pleaded guilty in Lincoln Municipal Court Monday to morals charges filed in connection with a Sunday morning raid.

Each was fined $10 and costs by Judge Thomas J. McManus.

Six persons, including the owner of the residence raided, entered innocent pleas.

Lucius Pearson, 40, of 2636 Dudley, was charged with maintaining a disorderly house. He pleaded innocent and was released on $250 bond. His trial was set for Dec. 3.

Disorderly House

All the others were charged with being inmates of a disorderly house. Three of the five women arrested pleaded innocent.

Police said they seized large amounts of liquor and beer and some illegal gambling equipment in the raid. No gambling charges were filed Monday, however.

Capt. Robert Sawdon, who described the raid as the largest in police history, said the raid was not triggered by City Councilman John Mason's recent accustions that organized gambling was going on in the city.

'Just Right Time'

"We've been thinking about this raid for quite some time and we've been waiting for just the right time. We apparently did find the right time," he said.

Officer Willie Paschall, a former University of Nebraska football player, gained entrance to the house in civilian clothes. He was followed by several officers who announced that they had a search warrant.

More than 100 cans of beer and dozens of bottles of liquor as well as dice, were confiscated. Police used a truck to cart away the items.

'FORTY-MINUTE JOB TOOK SIX WEEKS TO DO'

Newstead, England (AP) — Productivity expert Eric Moseley complained to the Nationalized Electricity Industry Monday that it took workmen six weeks to do a 40-minute electrical job.

Moseley asked to have his electric meter moved 15 inches and the following happened:

An electricity board inspector arrived and inspected his meter. Six weeks later five workmen showed up with a portable stove. He said two men did the job, two watched and did nothing, while the fifth made tea.

"And this cost me four pounds five shillings ($11.90)," he said.

The electricity board said it is investigating.

Fired White Man Complains About Racial Prejudice

Philadelphia (AP) — A white man has complained to the city's human relations commission that he was fired by the Philadelphia Independent, a Negro weekly, because of his race.

Earl C. Henwood, of suburban Bala Cynwyd, said the newspaper created job conditions "which were discriminatory." He was fired Sept. 5, after two months with the Independent.

Robert W. Williams Jr., president and publisher of the newspaper, said Henwood was discharged because of unsatisfactory work as a supervisor in the composing room. He denied discrimination.

The commission said it was investigating. No date was set for a hearing.

Missouri-Kansas Delegation Seeks Project Funds

Washington (AP)—A Missouri-Kansas delegation asked Monday that water and reclamation projects which would cost an estimated $123 million be included in President Johnson's next fiscal budget.

The delegations talked to officials of the U.S. Budget Bureau.

Two of the projects involve Nebraska. The delegation urged budgeting of $4,800,000 for the Missouri River navigation channel between Kansas City and Omaha and $35,000 for Kansas and Nebraska flood control planning on the Big Blue River.

Callan's Dinner Is Rescheduled For Sunday Night

A recognition dinner for Democratic Rep. Clair Callan at Norfolk has tentatively been rescheduled from Friday night to Sunday evening.

The change was necessary because Congress will still be in session Friday, an aide said.

A similar dinner in Lincoln this Saturday at 7 p.m. is still on.

House Majority Leader Carl Albert, D-Okla., will be the keynote speaker at the $25-a-plate dinners. Gov. Frank Morrison and Lt. Gov. Philip Sorensen will also participate.

Morrison Adds His Greetings

Nebraska Gov. Frank Morrison Monday joined other Americans in welcoming Pope Paul to this country.

With the birth of the Atomic Age, he said, "the policies of the Vatican toward enlarging the dimensions of human understanding and promoting peace in the world" are of great importance.

"Bringing about a world of law and order and peace and understanding is by far the most challenging and important political necessity of our times," the governor said.
